GERMAN CRISIS ALARMS BRITAIN

REPORT KAPP ARRESTED

FIRE IN SALEM FACTORY

SAYS THEFT WAS PLOT TO SHIELD ATTEAUX

Clerk Ordered to Steal to Hide Big Dyestuff Graft, Declares Lawyer for Prisoner

Charges that Charles E. Peakes, former clerk for F. E. Atteaux, Inc., who is serving a four-to-seven years' sentence for forgery and theft of $12,000 from his employer, assumed the responsibility for a $21,000 shortage on the books in order to conceal a "graft" account from a creditor company were made today at the hearing before the Governor's Council on the Peakes pardon petition.

Over $100,000 was paid by the Atteaux Company in graft to secure dye contracts, said it was to conceal these payments from the Sharpless Dye Company, which the Atteaux Company agreed $125,000, that Peakes agreed to make up the shortage of $21,000 on the "graft account," which was kept by another man, according to the charges.

DISCOVERED BY AUDITOR.

Attorney E. M. Smith, counsel for Peakes, who made the charges, asserted that Atteaux prevailed upon Peakes "to go good" for the shortage and to take out the money from the company from time to time. It was for reimbursing himself that Peakes was found guilty, Smith said.

"In 1905, the Atteaux Company was a struggling concern," said Smith. "It owed $125,000 to the Sharpless Company, which insisted upon having a director in the Atteaux Company. The Sharpless Company pressed for payment and employed as counsel Moorfield Storey. The Atteaux Company employed I. R. Clark. It was arranged that the matter would be continued along.

"Augustus Nickerson was later employed by Atteaux to make an audit of the books. The ledger for the distribution of these 'commissions,' which was kept by Stewart, showed a difference as between the accounts kept by Peakes.

SAYS PEAKES BALKED.

"Atteaux said it would never do to let Clark know about the graft account. If Nickerson hadn't discovered it, the matter would have been all right. It wouldn't do for Stewart to admit the shortage, because that would open up the entire graft account.

"An agreement was made for Peakes to assume the shortage. He believed it to be about $6,000 or $8,000. When Atteaux told Clark that Peakes would assume it and that it was $21,000, Peakes balked. Atteaux took Peakes one side and said, 'You'll have your salary increased and I'll go on your notes.'"

GENERAL ALARM IS SOUNDED

Damage of $50,000 is Done by Flames to Plant of Leather Company

Salem, March 18.—A general alarm, caused by fire in the Northeastern Leather Company's plant on Broadway, today sent a shiver through the city, which has not forgotten the conflagration of 1914.

The fire started in the split shop of the plant, probably from a workman smoking, and invaded the main plant.

Firemen saved part of the three-story wooden structure, but nearly $50,000 damage was done by the flames.

The factory employs 300 workers and had an output of 2,500 skins daily.

CLASH ON MOTHERS' BILLS

Edna L. Spencer Accuses Senator Young of Using "Influence" to Block Her Work

Personal clashes marked the bearing today on the three maternity benefits bills submitted by Miss Edna Lawrence Spencer, Senator Benjamin Loring Young and Representative Carey at the State House.

Miss Spencer charged that Senator Young had told her he "could get any bill through the Legislature" and Senator Young denied this, declaring that he had been "most decidedly misquoted."

Dr. Charles Fleischer, referred to by Miss Spencer as an advocate of her measure, strove to pour oil on the troubled waters by paying tribute to the good qualities in both bills, urging that personal indifferences be "forgotten in the interest of the common welfare" and that the present was "no time for personal glory."

Admitting that her bill may cost the State $1,000,000 the first year, Miss Spencer declared it "the greatest money saving bill ever presented to the Legislature."

While Miss Spencer's bill were presented, maternity benefits measures by Senator Benjamin Loring Young and Representative Carey.

Miss Spencer made two changes in her bill. The first, striking out the provision, that evidence furnished by the prospective mother must be of-

Hays Bill Aims to End All Rent Gouging

Public hearings on rent profiteering will be reopened early next week by the Joint Committee on Judiciary of the Legislature at the request of Representative Martin Hays of Brighton, who is preparing an "iron tooth" bill to bring rent profiteering in all forms to an abrupt end in Massachusetts.

The fact that the commission on the Necessaries of Life goes out of existence the last of this month, and that even though it resisted in every possible contingency and covered all phases of rent profiteering, has led Mr. Hays to advocate more stringent measures than any hitherto suggested.

The Hays bill covers the entire field of rent profiteering, including all forms of real estate, and not merely dwellings. It will protect the small storekeeper and professional man of limited income. It also will protect dwellers in the higher priced sections.

The Hays bill aims to bring immediate relief to all those who suffer from rent profiteering, first, by making all tenancy agreements of yearly duration, to be ended only by three months' written notice, and, second, by requiring landlords to file with the Superior Court petitions and sworn financial statements of their property before raising rents.

It also includes clauses requiring landlords to furnish service and make repairs, and a provision for the taking of land and buildings by the right of eminent domain for housing purposes.

It aims to take the whole rent ques-

ALLIES ALL READY TO ADVANCE

BRYAN FIGHTS TO SAVE TREATY

Hopes to Get It Through in Most Any Form to Keep It Out of the Campaign

By International News Service.

Washington, March 18.—If the treaty is not ratified by the Senate tomorrow it will be brought up a third time between now and the June conventions, in a last effort to prevent it from becoming the chief issue in the political campaign.

Plans for this are already under way, and it is said will have the strong support of William Jennings Bryan and all those senators whose minds "go along" with his.

By a vote of 37 to 41 the Senate rejected this afternoon a reservation proposed by Senator Reed of Missouri that the United States reserve "exclusively the right to decide what questions affect its national honor or vital interests."

The Senate then took up another reservation offered by Senator Reed, that "The United States assumes no obligation to employ its military or naval forces or resources or any form of economic discrimination under any article of the treaty." It was defeated, 17 to 52.

When seen at his hotel today Bryan refused to comment upon what he proposed to do in the event the senate again refused the pact for the lack of the two-thirds majority necessary for its ratification.

Meantime he is bringing into play very ounce of his influence in an eleventh hour effort to swing enough Democrats over to his point of view to secure sufficient votes to ratify the treaty with any and whatever reservations there may be attached thereto.

"The people of this country will be heard from," Senator Robert L. Owen, Democratic candidate for the Presidential nomination, declared today. "And if the treaty is not ratified tomorrow it will surely come up again in the Senate before adjournment."

which could not be confirmed, said General von Luettwitz, former commander of the revolutionary troops at Berlin, who resigned and left the city, is now in negotiations with the Independent Socialists and has proposed the formation of a Soviet republic under military co-operation.

General von Oven is said to have succeeded General Seeckt as commander of the troops in Berlin.

Troops supporting the Ebert government are expected to arrive in Berlin tonight.

A crisis has been reached in Westphalia and Saxony. Soviets have been proclaimed at Hof and at Furth, next to Nuremberg, the most important industrial city in Bavaria.

Communists at Dortmund attacked the government forces and were victorious after a violent battle.

Government troops are concentrated in a number of towns, but as most places where Soviets were established the soldiers were disarmed by the workers.

Americans in Flight From German 'Reds'

By International News Service.

Berlin, March 18.—The American and British missions in Berlin are attempting to arrange with the international Red Cross for a train to move American and British citizens from Berlin.

German officials said they could not guarantee a safe passage because of news that the Spartacists in the Ruhr district had defeated the Reichswehr and probably command the railway lines.

The missions then attempted to arrange for the departure of the Americans and Britishers by way of Danzig.

A large number of Americans, mostly business men, who went to Leipzig to attend a commercial fair, are reported panic stricken as a result of the street fighting in that city. So far as known, none has been injured, but they are reported to be making desperate efforts to leave the city by automobile and airplane.

KAPP DENIES BRITISH AID.

Kapp has issued an official denial of the report that the British were forewarned on the revolution or collaborated with the revolutionaries.

Three of the chief leaders of the revolution, Wolfgang Kapp, General von Luettwitz and Colonel Bauer, have fled from Berlin. Kapp and Von Luettwitz left immediately after they handed their resignations to Vice-Chancellor Schiffer of the Ebert constitutional government.

General von Seeckt, who was left in command of the revolutionary troops, promised to remove them from Berlin immediately.

The situation is very bad. Unter den Linden, the chief thoroughfare in central Berlin, is filled with barbed wire entanglements and machine guns. The Reichswehr (troops supporting the Ebert government) is threatening to attack the Baltic troops (supporters of Kapp) unless they are withdrawn forthwith.

It is estimated that there are about 80,000 Reichswehr troops in Berlin and environs. Their leaders claim to have enough soldiers to crush the Spartacist movement. Spartacist leaders control the strike situation, however.

DEMAND KAPP'S ARREST.

Spartacist chiefs called upon Herr Schiffer, demanding the dismissal of Noske and a revision of the Ebert cabinet. Leaders of the Independent Socialists demand the surrender of all persons responsible for the Kapp uprising so they can be tried for high treason. They insist that no amnesty shall be declared.

The Communists ask the demobilization of the Reichswehr on the ground that these troops are reactionary and untrustworthy. This request was rejected, with the explanation that, if the Reichswehr were disbanded there would be nothing to prevent the Spartacists from seizing power.

Leaders of the workmen explained that their antagonism to the Kapp group was not only based on fears of a revival of the monarchy, but also because they resent a return of "grinding pre-war conditions," when they worked twelve hours a day. It was declared that the men surrounding Kapp were the same who were responsible for the pre-war drudgery of the labor class.

Rumor That Kapp Has Taken Life

By International News Service.

London, March 18.—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam today stated that, according to telephone messages received there from Berlin, the rumor is current in the German capital that Wolfgang Kapp, who resigned yesterday as Chancellor of the German revolutionary government, has committed suicide.

President Friedrich Ebert of Germany has arrived in Berlin from Stuttgart, according to the Exchange Telegraph dispatch.

A telegram received earlier in the day by the Times from Amsterdam quoted Berlin dispatches to the Telegraaf as saying that Kapp and Von Luettwitz had both fled from Berlin in automobiles immediately after they resigned.

President Ebert ordered the arrest of Kapp and Von Luettwitz, it was reported from Paris.

A report that Great Britain has loaned 500,000 pounds for the purchase of British merchant tonnage is unconfirmed.

"Now that Kapp has been overthrown, a reversion to the old state of affairs in Germany is impossible."

The Daily Herald correspondent says that the food situation in Vienna has become critical as a result of the German railway strike, which held up relief trains from Holland and Denmark.

fered "at least two months previous to her anticipated confinement," the other, providing that "nothing in this bill shall prevent the practice of obstetrics as now employed in the teaching hospitals of Boston."

Miss Spencer said her bill was originally framed with the aid of the State Department of Health, but accused the department of since deserting her measure to support that of Mr. Young.

The bill provides that prospective mothers unable to obtain proper medical and nursing care for themselves, shall be aided by the State with a cash benefit for a suitable following confinement, and that no stigma of charity shall attach to such aid rendered.

It provides further that in case of illegitimacy the father shall be obliged to reimburse the State for such aid.

Miss Spencer said in part:

"The State now says to poor mothers: 'If you don't want to accept charity at childbirth, you can suffer, you can die!'

"If something is not done our race will be inferior to the races of Europe, because every country in Europe has a maternity benefit system. England lowered her infant mortality even during the war. New Zealand's infant mortality is only one-half of ours.

"In the United States we lose 15,000 women annually from diseases arising out of pregnancy. In Massachusetts the maternity mortality has increased 70.3 per cent. More women between the ages of fifteen and forty-nine die from this cause than from any other except heart disease and tuberculosis."

Miss Spencer cited the International Congress of Working Women as having indorsed the principles embodied in her bill. She emphasized the desirability of the cash benefit provision.

Miss Spencer estimated that the cost to the State for the first year would probably be about $700,000.

"Call it $1,000,000," she continued. "This would mean that the city of Cambridge, for example, would have to pay an additional tax of twenty cents on the thousand.

"But would ultimately not cost the State any more than it is paying at present, for the hospitals and other institutions are filled with crippled children and disabled mothers, victims of improper care at childbirth."

Miss Spencer quoted Health Commissioner William C. Woodward of Boston as having stated that he favored the principles of her bill, but "did not know where he stood."

STOCK VICTIMS TO GET MONEY

Pastor, Denying Connection With Swindle, Says Investors Will Not Lose

Holyoke, March 18.—Mill girl victims of the big stock swindle in connection with which A. Judson Young of Springfield and James Currie of this city are being held, will get their money back, the Rev. F. B. Smith said today.

Mr. Smith, while denying any connection with Young except through the purchase of legitimate stock, declared he had received positive information to this effect.

He admitted that he had introduced Young to a number of persons, who purchased stock, but asserted that some months ago he became suspicious and dropped the broker. Some time after that, he said Young asked him to mortgage his car in order to help him get out of his difficulties and that he refused.

Mr. Smith admitted that the trustees of the wealthy First Presbyterian Church of this city, of which he is pastor, would meet tonight to discuss his connection with the case, now said to involve $80,000.

ATTACHED HIS AUTO.

The minister's name has been frequently mentioned as having been connected with the stockbroker Young, and the pastor's limousine was attached by Miss M. McEwan, said to have been Young's secretary.

Michael J. O'Connor, counsel for a number of the mill girls, made an attack on the Rev. Mr. Smith, in which he declared we're being investigated.

"It is true," said Mr. Smith, "that I introduced Young to a number of persons, but my intentions were innocent. I had been introduced to Mr. Young by a Springfield pastor, Young was at that time local manager for a firm of Boston stockbrokers.

"I was a director of the Connecticut Bedding Company, and I bought some cast beer and oil stock from Young. This stock was legitimate, and was sold under contract.

"Only about six of my parishioners purchased stocks from Young, but I believe he sold about $80,000 worth altogether. I was frequently called on to help Young when he was in difficulties in making a sale, but only did what I knew.

"My friendship with Young lasted from the time I met him, a year and last May, to five or six months ago, when I became suspicious of the man and dropped him. He then met Jimmy Currie who was connected with the MILL GIRLS INVEST.

Farr Alpaca Company.

"It was through Currie that Young induced the mill girls to invest their money, all of which they will receive back. I can't say where I got this information at present.

"As I understand it, the girls were induced to invest $100 with the promise of $120 in a month's time, for something like that. At first these promises were kept, and the girls reinvested. Later they received worthless stocks and in many cases got nothing.

"After I got through with Young, he came to me with a request that I mortgage my automobile to help him out. I refused and advised him to give up the whole game. He said he needed $35,000 and refused to quit.

"My hands are clean, and I am sure that I will be exonerated at the meeting of the trustees."

The arrest of Young and Currie followed complaints made by mill girls who failed to receive the big dividends promised them. It was discovered by the authorities that the savings of hundreds of working people, principally in the mill towns, had been lost.

Following the arrest of the two men, an additional damage suit for $10,000, was brought against Young by Arthur H. Bosworth of Springfield, an official of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company. Bosworth claimed that Young sold him oil stock and didn't delivered the certificates.

Wiegand Describes Berlin Fighting

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND,

Staff Correspondent of the Boston American.

Copyright, 1920, by Star Company.

Berlin, March 16 (Evening).—The situation is growing more critical every hour.

Communist attacks have begun. Communist shock troops have disarmed the Citizens' Guard in three of Berlin's suburbs, and the eastern edge of Berlin, known as the Upper Spree region, is in the control of Communists, who have also occupied various railway stations.

It was in the Foreign Office when the news of these radical coups came over the telephone. Lieutenant-Commander Lensch communicating the reports to me as they came in. An alarm order was immediately given to government troops all over the city.

ATTACK WAS HASTENED.

It is believed the fear of Kapp and Ebert reaching an agreement has caused the Communists to begin their attack sooner than planned. It is known they have been carefully preparing for it.

The government's official telephone office bristles with machine guns.

The intelligence division of the Ministry of Defence informs me that Communists have disarmed government troops in Hamburg and are in control of the city.

It is admitted that the danger of a Bolshevist revolution is rapidly growing and can be averted only through a quick compromise between the Ebert and Kapp factions.

TUESDAY NOON.—Firing broke out in several parts of the city again this morning. It is reported that Dr. Levy, Communist leader, who was an intimate friend of the late Karl Liebknecht, has been summarily executed.

Notice has been served by the Kapp regime that after 4 o'clock this afternoon persons attempting to make speeches in the streets will be shot immediately.

The Communists are making extensive preparations.

Should the present government fail before adequate protection is assured there are reasons for the gravest anxiety as to future events here.

Clashes between troops and civilians began early last evening. Sporadic firing continued in the city throughout the night. The first serious clash took place in the centre of the city, on the Potsdamer Platz, where seven streets come together. Vast crowds gathered listening to speakers urging resistance to the Kapp government, and when they failed to scatter at the commands of officers, the troops fired. A wild panic ensued.

Captain Frank Mason, correspondent of the International News Service, and myself, passed the scene half an hour later. Soldiers told us only one woman had been wounded, but Lieutenant-Commander Lensch, who called a conference of foreign correspondents at the Chancellor's Palace, announced that twelve persons had been killed.

SOLDIERS MOBBED.

Soon afterwards disturbances broke out all over the city, many casualties resulting from clashes between troops and strikers. In South Berlin a mob attempted to throw soldiers into the canal, but was finally scattered by rifle fire, several being killed.

Reports of casualties in Berlin during the last twenty-four hours' conflict, ranging from thirty to eighty.

Lensch told the correspondents that he was authorized to state "no binding conversation" had taken place between the Kapp government and the entente mission here. In answer to a direct question, he said it could not be denied that individual persons connected with the Kapp government may have discussed the question with individual members of the allied missions.

SIMS' ATTACK IS ON SYSTEM

Navy Organization, Not Any Official, Target for Criticism, He Says

By International News Service.

Washington, March 18.—Admiral Sims today declared that his attacks were not directed against any particular official of the Navy Department, but against the department "as an organization" when he concluded his testimony before a Senate investigation committee.

The navy made "splendid achievements in the war in spite of delays, inaction and violation of military principles by the high command in the first months of the war," Admiral Sims declared today before the Senate sub-committee investigating his charges against the Navy Department.

"The allies themselves have repeatedly assured us of the vital services rendered by our navy, and we of the navy can take pride in the record that we achieved," Admiral Sims said.

"It seems to me that these achievements of the navy should gain greater importance in the public mind when it is realized that they were accomplished not because of an equal amount of efficiency in the higher command which directed them, but in spite of long delays, inaction and violations of fundamental military principles by the high command.

"The personnel of our navy afloat, in accomplishing the mission assigned them, had to struggle with the enemy and also to endure the handicap of a vacillating policy of misdirection."

Admiral Sims introduced tables to show that the full weight of the American ships was not thrown into the war until late in 1918, and that on Armistice Day there were 375 ships, 451 headquarters men and a force of 80,000 in Europe.

Admiral Sims recounted protests he had made that reserve officers were sent to Europe to fill positions that only trained men should have and also made charges that the Navy Department promoted men at home over the heads of men whom he had recommended for promotion for "gallantry in the face of the enemy."

MRS. RANDALL SUFFERED BRUTAL BEATING TO WIN HER DIVORCE

FEARED "SOULMATE'S" LOVE FOR HER WOULD GROW COLD

Chicago, March 18.—Ruthlessly baring her innermost thoughts, Ruth Randall, in today's instalment of her diary, tells of her experiences with Captain Clifford Bleyer up to the time he prepares to enter the military service and includes a graphic recital of the brutality of her husband which ends in her securing a divorce.

She experienced many heartaches, and inspired by her love for Bleyer, plans to take a nursing course that she may follow him to France to be near him. She learns of his marriage and falls in love with one of his children.

RUTH RANDALL'S DIARY.
CHAPTER VII.

October 31, 1917.—Bill came later and when Cliff left I told Bill and he said it was not so, that Cliff lied.

I was to phone Cliff Monday night after dinner. It was an hour before Norm came in drunk at Joe's and came home with me. He beat me and made me come across. Oh, God, what a nightmare. Cliff phoned and I told him. Bill phoned me.

Cliff was there at 4:30 and took me to the Hyde Park Police Station. Norm was arrested and spent the night there. Next morning at court and Norm is out on bonds of $1,000. I think a federal officer was out there to see him. Of course, that is Cliff's work.

I went to see Norm and he was very meek. Cliff said he was sorry and Norm said "thank you." And my Cliff said: "You wouldn't if you knew who I was," and walked away. Cliff doesn't understand how I ever could have loved Norm.

WONDERS AT HIS KINDNESS.

November 1.—Cliff had dinner with me tonight and then went to a meeting at Medinah Temple. For the last few days he has been very good and wonderful. Every other word is "my sweetheart" or "my precious." Oh, God, I do love Cliff.

Why is he so kind to me? Laughingly I said to him it is because he is going to leave me soon, and feels sorry for me. Cliff endeavors to be kind to everyone. He is so good, so sweet and kind. He said tonight that when he is gone he will send me some money every month — even though it will be very little. God bless him for even thinking of me. All my thoughts are of Cliff, Cliff, Cliff.

November 4.—My face is almost well, although my teeth hurt dreadfully. There is some kind of pleasure to get me in wrong. Cliff wears a face for me and wants me just the same, but he can't control. The idea of my working is repulsive to him. The mere mention of a girl's supporting herself like $180 or $150 a month is obnoxious. He would do anything—go without his luncheon if he could help, but he simply can't economize.

The woman downstairs is playing something very beautiful. My heart aches for Cliff and my mother. God bless my mother! God bless Cliff and her. She was here Friday night and met Cliff and she was delighted. She tries to be called her "mother" and tries to be known as such. Cliff came told mamma that she was "some" girl here and five with me.

Nov. 18.—Yesterday I drew $200 out of my checking account, leaving $100. Now I have $300 in my checking account and feel that is a comforting sum. For her so long I've wanted a checkin account and now, by heaven, I have one.

CLIFF GOING INTO SERVICE.

November 17.—Cliff is going! Cliff is going away to war. That is all I can think of now. I am miserable. Nothing is right. I don't wish to live longer. There is nothing to live for. Everything—every object in my house—makes me think of Cliff, his little dog on the table, the dear violets in the living room, that I wouldn't allow my mother to touch. Oh, God! I just want Cliff. my Cliff!

I am only fooling myself when I think of him as mine. He is not, and does he ever think of me? He is so good and kind to me, and I love him. Last night in the restaurant with mamma and Cliff, my cocktails after he told me he was accepted. It was better to drink than sit and cry. Oh, God! I am crazy. Cliff wants me to live with my mother. He said last night that if I didn't go home right he is gone (here it hurts to write these words) I'll be running around with everyone. Love is funny. If only I could believe that he does.

November 19.— Saw him tonight, says he's worried about what will happen to me, begged me to leave mamma here, tried to explain how she feels. Said he would speak to her, wishes me to be with her, if I'm not I'll be sitting in cabarets when he returns from Fort Sill in two months.

November 24.—Cliff is dearer and sweeter than ever. Saw Attorney Whipple on the 22d, and he had Norm there. Norm will pay fee for decree. Norm is such a little boy. Tonight Cliff asked me very seriously not to ever speak to or call me "Kitten." Is said that is his private, pet name for me. I'm waiting now for him. Must think he was with me at the station Friday night. We spent the happiest eve. I think Cliff was happy. He acted differently, too. Asked me if it did not prove that he loved me. I hope he loves every bent of my heart.

CLIFF IS IMPOLITE.

November 26—Saw Attorney Whipple today. Told him to get money from Norm. Cliff here in afternoon with Tom R. Both drunk. Will I ever be hardened to men of the world? Cliff is so impolite it makes me ashamed of him at times.

November 29—Thanksgiving Day, 2:30 p. m.—Waiting for Cliff to phone or write. Will meet mother at 5 or 6 and dine with her. I'm so sorry for her. But have my own way to make. Yesterday saw Ethel Wilson, "Greek," who used to sell flags. I'm anxious to talk things over with her. We might be able to help each other. Cliff was awfully good to me tonight when he was here. Said for past five days he's been thinking of "Fanchon's Huff," a pretty little French story we read. Fanchon died of consumption. Ruth is too hearty to die so gracefully. I wrote letter to Attorney Whipple today at Cliff's dictation. Oh, how I lied!

December 4—Cliff phoned Joe and was happy to hear from him. Phoned all over me, so glad to see me. I was surely glad to be with him, but couldn't decide it should be. Monday Cliff and I walked to Red Star Inn, dined and walked in park to smoke.

CLIFF MAKES A SCENE.

December 6—Cliff said he'd phone me 5 a. m., but did not, so I have not phoned him. I don't know how in God's name I can keep going. Pawned my ring Monday.

(The following appears in a man's handwriting.)

What can I tell her? Can I go on my knees to her, as I am always, figuratively? Can I sit at her feet and kiss her feet and tell her how I worship her? No! One cannot, so that one can only think it, feel it, never tell it. I believe I have told all that is finest and good and beautiful in me when I say to me all that I've dreamed of, wanted, longed for, all my life. I can't—cannot have her all by myself!

So I am going away to war—just that—and pray God, if there be a God, for that I may be killed. I'll not forget, and when I do her name will be on my line. My Kitten just a name on some one's list.

I'd rather kiss her sweet fingers, I'd like to caress my cheek and pretend her, recall how she runs around with her little kitten feet, little kitten face, little kitten ways.

She is so pretty when she walks. I will always think of her thus. I watch her through the half-closed eyes while she runs out to get me a bite. I close my eyes in a sort of ecstacy. Just now she said: "If I die I could only kiss her everywhere at once, or her eyes, and hair, or her feet." To me she's that ray, that sunbeam, that strikes through my window and brightens up my life, happiness to lonely souls. I love her. I love her. I love her more than I've ever loved, yet I might not tell her so, because I am going away, real far away, to war. It makes me love her harder for both. I won't come back here, but I'll take with me a memory, though I'll have no need, for I'll never forget more than that which I am about to give to my country. Sweetest Kitten. Sweetest. I say Sweetest because you are the sweetest, sweetest to me who loves you so, who loves only you—

LOVES HER MADLY.

December 9—Cliff was very mean. He cross-questioned me about everything and then said: "Let's not quarrel," and I said I had been perfectly still. He said, "Oh, Kitten!" It is impossible for me to write the sweetness, the dearness, the lovableness of Cliff's when he speaks to me.

"Why do you suppose I am talking about all this?" he said. "It's because I love you so I'm so jealous. I came into Joe's hoping to see you. On the contrary I have looked for you and cursed every one for not being my Kitten. I could be so happy with you, Kitten, but I can't take care of you. Oh, Ruth, I love you so! I have to look after that unfortunate family as well.

Said I: "I wish I were a member of that unfortunate family." And Cliff said, and oh, God, I believe him, so said it so earnestly: "Ruth, when I am free I will ask you to honor me by becoming my wife."

Something in my Kitten's diary — what shall I write? I want to write something that will tell her the words seem just like an ill wind that chills. I can't see her. I love her so. She never believes me. I can't see her and tell her that she is more than life, more than my breath, because I am leaving and she believed.

December 13.—Cliff and I had an awful time. He and Norm had phoned Norm from Blake's and I said "No." When Cliff looked at me with his steely blue eyes, heard, his lips set in a thin, straight line and his dark eyes piercing mine, reading my thoughts I gave in. There is something uncanny about Cliff. His hair is quite light, but the eyebrows and lashes, brown lashes, surrounding very dark eyes. Not any eyes, but just his eyes, give me a creepy feeling.

Mrs. Charlie Chaplin Seeking Divorce

MRS. MILDRED HARRIS CHAPLIN.

Los Angeles, March 18.—Mildred Harris Chaplin, youthful secret bride of Charlie Chaplin, has found marriage with her film comedian husband a failure. Mrs. Chaplin today admitted she will file suit for divorce.

And with her confession made at her home No. 14 South Oxford street that Chaplin and she had separated several months ago came a story of heartaches, alleged cruelty, neglect and charges of persecution. It is on some of these grounds that Mrs. Chaplin will seek her freedom.

Without cause and so frequently that it has made life unbearable, Mrs. Chaplin asserts her husband has left her alone and neglected, while she waited for him in vain at her home, finally deserting her altogether and making his residence at the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Mrs. Chaplin did not make it clear whether she would file suit for divorce or for separate maintenance.

In a newspaper interview Mrs. Chaplin herself a motion picture actress, declared that her husband's coldness and neglect had made life with him unbearable to her.

"He finally deserted me altogether, after threatening that unless I accept a settlement of $25,000 from him and file suit for divorce in Nevada, he would start such a suit against me," said Mrs. Chaplin.

"Following this he had detectives follow me everywhere. He has no grounds upon which to sue me.

"I don't want his money, but I must have support. He has refused to pay my bills, and I was forced to return to work after our baby's death much sooner than I should have done, because it was necessary for me to support members of my family dependent upon me. I hate to break up our home, but I just couldn't stand it any longer."

Pleas, she declared, were in vain. Finally, unable to stand the strain of persistent worry and the pity of her friends, Mrs. Chaplin asserts she placed her case in the hands of an attorney. The plans for the divorce action followed.

When informed that her plans had become known, Mrs. Chaplin, showing the effects of the strain of trying to keep her marital troubles a secret, broke down and wept. Despite this she had hesitated at divorce because of the publicity certain to follow, and the scandal of a diclis of taking a stand and exposing to the gaze of the world her family secrets.

VOTE FIGURES IN FRENCH DIVORCE

Wife of Son of Concord Ex-Mayor Charges Cruel and Abusive Treatment

The question of whether Clarence H. French, son of former Mayor French of Concord, N. H., voted in New Hampshire while a legal resident of Dedham was raised today by counsel for his wife, Bernice M. French, in East Cambridge Divorce Court before Judge Sanderson.

Mrs. French seeks divorce on the ground of cruel and abusive treatment.

She has been at the East Cambridge Courthouse for several days waiting for her case to be tried. Counsel for his wife claimed the case should be tried at Dedham because he is a legal resident of Norfolk County. His wife maintained that he had always been a legal resident of Concord, N. H., while living in Massachusetts, because his father was in politics in the Granite State.

Judge Sanderson upheld Mr. French's contention and the suit was transferred to the Norfolk county seat at Dedham for trial.

French testified that he paid poll taxes in Dedham for nine or ten years. He denied retaining legal residence in New Hampshire.

"During the period when you paid poll taxes in Dedham did you ever vote in Concord, N. H.?" he was asked by his wife's attorney.

"I don't remember whether I did or not," replied French.

He testified that he lived in Quincy after separating from his wife in October, 1917. He was employed by the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation, but denied that he worked there under an assumed name.

Canning, living at No. 1431 Commonwealth avenue, told Judge Thayer in Suffolk Divorce court today that her husband left her at the corner of Broadway and Thirty-third street, New York, in September, 1916, saying he would be gone a few moments, and that he had not put in an appearance since.

A decree nisi for desertion was granted Mrs. Canning, a buyer for a local department store, said she married Henry Canning, an automobile salesman, in 1908, in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Alma J. McLaughlin was granted a decree nisi from Edwin J. McLaughlin for desertion.

Ida Katz, found two weeks of married life with William Katz not sufficient. She was granted a decree nisi.

Mrs. Ida Isabel Griffiths of No. 89 Sumner street, East Boston, told of specific acts of cruelty by her husband, George F. Griffiths, and was granted a decree nisi.

Eight Divorce Cases Heard in Dedham

Erin Already 'Free,' Says Storey

To the Editor of the Boston American:

My attention has been called to a letter published in your columns of yesterday which purports to have been written to me by John F. Harrigan, but which I observe is not dated. I have never received such a letter, but that may be the fault of the mails.

In it Mr. Harrigan calls my attention to certain expressions of mine in former speeches, and says that I was known as "a champion of independence not only of Ireland, but of all oppressed peoples." He asks me why I have changed my views.

In reply I would say that I have never believed in independence for Ireland, to be possible or desirable, and I have not changed any of the views expressed in the passages which he quotes from my speeches.

Mr. Harrigan quotes my remark "that the United States is the friend of every nation struggling for freedom." I think it should be, but I do not think that Ireland is struggling for freedom. I think the Irish are today as free and have as much voice in their government as any citizens of the British Empire. In fact, I think they have more, and I expressed that opinion in the very passage which Mr. Harrigan quotes when I said "England for centuries dominated Ireland, but today the people of England govern England," and gave the reasons for this opinion, which I still hold and which absolutely inconsistent with the idea that the Irish people are not free.

IRELAND AND INDIA.

Mr. Harrigan quotes some words of mine criticising the English government of India. I should repeat them today, but they do not bear on this question. If India was a united nation it would be independent now, unhappily it is not. It has no voice in its own government. Ireland has.

The most pertinent quotation is this, written in 1906: "Ireland is at England's door. There also miserable poverty prevails, and the Irish problem taxes the wisdom of English statesmen in vain. The world knows the story of Ireland, for Irishmen are independent. Ireland and India are standing proofs that not even the British sword can successfully govern another against its will."

I have no doubt whatever that Ireland's worst miseries was very badly governed, and that the feeling of today is caused by the memory of ancient tyranny. Today however, Ireland is very prosperous and has suffered less from the war than any part of the British Isles. The British government has pursued towards her for years a very liberal policy, and her grievances have been remedied. She is not "governed only by harsh laws and force." The whole foundation for such a statement is found in the steps which England has taken and the measures she has taken to prevent the Germans, with Irish assistance, from attacking England from Ireland, and the precautions she has taken to preserve the public peace from the attacks made by assassins upon public officers and private citizens alike.

QUOTES JUDGE GOFF

I have before me the "History of the Irish Race and Its Contest for Self-Rule," by Francis P. Jones, with a preface written by Hon. John W. Goff, Judge of the United States. It was published in 1917 and the preface is dated March 4. In it Judge Goff says that the book as published "fortunately for the cause of truth . . . by an author whose facilities for acquiring first-hand knowledge were unsurpassed." From it I quote the following passages:

"The perfection to which German ingenuity and science had brought the submarine was not known to the greatest difficulties which the Irish had to face. An Irish-Germanic alliance would be of assistance to the Irish inasmuch as the German submarines could prevent the landing of troops by sea, and at the same time could prevent the bombardment of the coast by British warships."

"It may well be asked what the Irish would do once they gained the upper hand as the country.

With the Irish in command throughout their own country the Germans could land both men and arms by way of submarines. Ireland would thus become a vitally important base for the operations of the Germans, the greater portion of the sea approaches to England would be in the hands of enemy forces and left western boundary would be seriously menaced.

It is therefore obvious that the plan of the Irish not only had in it a large possibility of success, but if carried out would certainly have proved a crowning disaster for England in the war."

"WILLING TO AID GERMANY."

"There can be no question that the Sinn Feiners were willing to aid of Germany to destroy the British empire, and had they been given an independent nation England would have had to conquer her in self-defence, and all the opponents of Germany would have wished her success in the attempt.

The men engaged in the present agitation are seeking to embroil this country with England, and to use us instead of Germans in their attempt to secure independence.

I am opposed to it because I think that the existing between the British empire and Ireland is a question for them to settle, and I believe it can be settled by peaceful means, while the violence proposed and practiced by the Irish postpones any settlement for years.

I think the United States has no more right to interfere than England would have to liberate the Philippines, or to interfere between us and Cuba.

I believe also that the Irish are no more entitled to independence than the United States which composed the Southern Confederacy, and as I think secession here was properly prevented so the abolishing of serfdom in Great Britain is justified in preventing secession there. As we insisted that the sober of waters should flow unvexed to the sea," so Great Britain may insist that no hostile nation should be established on her flank which would command the approaches to her shores.

I feel sure that the present movement cannot succeed, although I confess that I am always the tyrannous methods adopted centuries ago, and which have caused the bitterness which underlies the Irish movement, but I do not think the ancient wrongs are to be remedied by perpetuating a hostility which will prevent the friendly union of men who should be friends.

If, instead of dwelling on what is long past and stirring up ill-feeling between Irish, British and Americans as exaggerated, false, or hysterical assertion of the leaders of the various Irish factions would sit down like sensible men with the representatives of the British Empire and deal with affairs as they are, they would doubtless reach an adjustment by mutual concessions, and the attempt would have my cordial sympathy and support.

Yours truly,
MOORFIELD STOREY.

SLAYER OF WIFE EAGER TO DIE

New Britain Man Cuts Throat in New York; Strangled Wife in Jealous Rage

New York, March 18.—"I don't care what happens. I'm willing to die in the electric chair," said George Evans, New Britain, Ct., wife slayer, today in Bellevue Hospital, where he is in a serious condition after cutting his throat.

Evans fled here after garroting his twenty-year-old wife with his child's toy harness in their New Britain home. Jealousy, kindled to insanity by his wife's apparent neglect of their three-year-old son Teddy, caused the tragedy, according to Evans' confession made on the operating table.

With blood bubbling from a jagged wound in his throat, Evans told how he snared his pretty wife from behind by tossing the toy harness around her throat and tightening it until he strangled her to death.

Evans attempted suicide in a New York hotel. He apparently took poison and then broke the bottle which held the tablets and used its jagged edge to slash his throat. A chambermaid found his unconscious body.

At the hospital, no connection with the New Britain murder was established until Evans asked a nurse to call detectives. He then made part of the confession.

"My wife received attentions from too many men," he said. "I asked her to think of our little boy if she did not care for me. She said I could throw him in the street for all she cared. I killed her then."

The joy harness used as a noose by the jealous crazed husband was his gift a few days ago to his son, Teddy.

New Britain authorities said Evans had a "fighting chance to recover." He was very weak from loss of blood.

Detective Andrew J. Richards of New Britain failed to obtain a verbal statement from the confessed murderer owing to his weakened condition. Physicians forbade the wounded man from talking. A statement was read to him embodying his previous confession and Evans signed it according to the police.

DE LAURENTIS TO HEAR FATE SOON

Case Against Alleged Slayer of Guardsman Ready to Go to Jury

Evidence in the case of Joseph de Laurentis, charged with the murder of William Duchaine, a State guardsman, was concluded and arguments of the attorneys began at Judge Brown's session of Suffolk Superior Court today.

De Laurentis, on the stand, admitted firing several shots in his barber shop on Cambridge street, West End, but declared that he did it to frighten Thomas Conroy, who, he said, had threatened his life.

Attorney Peter Walsh, for the defendant, called William Boyle and William J. Leonard, both former police officers, in rebuttal, who testified that they knew Conroy to be quarrelsome when drinking. Henry Fielding, assistant district attorney, presented several former policemen who said they had never known Conroy to carry a gun.

FOOD IN BOSTON HIGHEST IN U. S.

Minneapolis and St. Paul Lowest in Country, According to Official Statistics

Cincinnati, March 18. — Boston's food prices are the highest in the United States in comparison to average prices paid for all kinds of labor.

This is shown in the official report of comparative food profiteering conditions in twenty-four large cities, made to the Cincinnati Street Railway by A. M. Houlware, secretary of the chamber's industrial department, who has had expert statisticians testing the reports of the United States Bureau of Labor statistics.

The Minneapolis-St. Paul combined district prices rank as the lowest, wages considered.

This city is second to the Minneapolis-St. Paul district. The Cincinnati food price conditions, comparing food prices and average wages paid for all kinds of labor, is 8.6 per cent lower than the average of all the twenty-four leading cities of America, leaving out the Minneapolis-St. Paul district.

Boston food prices, compared with average Boston wages paid, are 24.4 per cent. higher than those prevailing here, according to Houlware.

The figures published excited much attention among the manufacturers of this district, because they, too, face price condition, compared with labor wages, accounts for the lack of labor troubles here.

COWIN ORDERED TO VACATE

Author of Bill to Protect Against Eviction Will Fight Landlord

Representative Frank H. Cowin of Dorchester, author of a bill now before the Legislature, which would protect tenants against eviction in the Winter, declares that he himself is a victim of the system he hopes to curb.

Representative Cowin has been ordered to vacate his apartment at No. 93 Hancock street, Dorchester, but through the intervention of the Commission on the Necessaries of Life he has been granted an extension until May 1.

His apartment was rented for $26 a month. Mrs. Agnes Tenney was the owner, although three months ago Mrs. Tenney's brother, Alexander Boyer, represented himself as the new owner of the apartment and informed Mr. Cowin that the rent would be $30. According to Mr. Cowin, the new owner in the presence of three witnesses agreed to accept $28 a month and promised not to disturb him for at least two years.

A week ago Representative Cowin was notified by Dr. Joseph E. Sternberg that he had leased the premises and expected the Cowin family to vacate. This Mr. Cowin refused to do.

He investigated the papers relative to the lease and found that Mrs. Tenney's name appeared as owner. His complaint that the lease was invalidated was sustained by the commission and Mr. Cowin retains the apartment.

W. F. Donovan of No. 11 High street, Somerville, complained to the commission today because he had been ordered to vacate his home before April 15. He has been paying $31 a month, he declares, and now understands that the landlord has let the apartment for $40. He states that apartments owned by the same landlord and formerly let for $24 and $26 are now $40 and $50 respectively.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

Joicey Williams, the well-known actress, who was recently playing at the Imperial Theatre in St. Louis, made the following statement about gray hair and how to darken it:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine."

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

State-Owned Homes to End Rent Problem

New York, March 18.—Although Massachusetts is perhaps better off than New York and New Jersey in regard to the housing problem, owing to the fact that the Constitutional Convention, with ratification by the people, gave municipalities the right to build houses, the legislation now agitated here is of special interest to New England as a possible wedge for similar measures to defeat the rent profiteers of that section.

For, even though Massachusetts municipalities are given the right to build, no means have been provided for the actual process of building. And that is precisely what the State of New Jersey and the State of New York are trying to bring about.

"No measures for better housing will succeed unless the co-operation of labor is secured and definite arrangements are concluded whereby the building trades will agree not to strike until they have finished all work tending towards better housing," said Nomer Gray, organizer of the Tenants' League, regarding this problem.

MUST BUILD MORE.

"We are face to face with an economic condition which has but one answer, 'Build more houses,' and that answer is one which every community must find itself, under supervision of and with the aid of the State," said Commissioner Gannon, director of the famous and successful Jersey City 'rent strikes.'

In view of the fact that General Sherburne of the Massachusetts Commission on the Necessaries of Life says practically the same thing in his recommendations to the Massachusetts Legislature, the means by which New Jersey and New York aim to accomplish this may act as a timely tip to the tenants of the Bay State.

The New Jersey plan may be summed up in a few words. It provides not only for construction of apartment dwellings from the public funds, but the continued public ownership and management of such dwellings by the State itself. Instead of loaning money to individuals for building purposes, or encouraging the contraction of apartments through differential mortgage rates, the State becomes a dealer in apartment real estate.

The State becomes the landlord, the rents paid by the tenants forming interest on the public money invested. It is government ownership applied to apartment houses.

As yet, this interesting radical plan is only in the debate stage in New Jersey. Commissioner Gannon, however, expressed the belief that it formed the ultimate solution of the whole rent problem.

TAX EXEMPTIONS MAY AID.

Less radical measures are being urged in New York, where the principal object is regarded as getting men with capital to begin building operations as quickly as possible.

The original bill designed to effect this called for the exemption from State income taxes on mortgage holdings up to $40,000 in order to secure money for building, and to induce Congress to make the same exemption as to the Federal income tax. The Board of Governors of the Real Estate Board of New York urged that this bill be amended to extend the exemption without any limit.

The bill is strongly backed by real estate interests, who claim that as long as capital can put its money into tax-free securities it is not going to invest in construction or real estate that is taxable. However, little hope is held out that the bill will pass because of its provision that the Federal tax must also be repealed.

Meanwhile public interests in the bill is overshadowed by the interest in Mayor Hylan's plan, through which it is hoped to provide accommodations for at least 200,000 persons.

This plan, in brief, is to bring about an understanding between investing capital and construction labor by which the former will furnish the money, buy the building materials at fixed prices, and the latter will agree to work without striking for a certain period at fixed wages.

The plan calls for the investment of $150,000,000 in private capital, which amount Mayor Hylan has announced is already lodged. Organized labor and dealers in building material have announced their willingness to co-operate, and it looks as though the plan would go through.

LABOR MUST HELP.

"If labor will agree to co-operate and keep its agreement in this, the plan will undoubtedly succeed," said Mr. Gray, in discussing the Hylan plan, "but for its success capital and labor must work together. It would be much simpler if the city or state could provide the money, but that, unfortunately, would require constitutional amendments, which would take at least two years."

Massachusetts municipalities, through the last Constitutional Convention, already possesses the power to build houses if they see fit.

Pending developments on the housing problem several communities are planning temporary measures which range from tent dwelling and the construction of municipal summer bungalows, to co-operative building schemes for apartments.

HAS 'IRON TOOTH' RENT BILL

tin out of the realm of politics by making the justices of the Superior Court the decisive factors in rent cases, yet assuring both sides a square deal through a jury trial.

TO END EVICTIONS.

Here's what it aims to accomplish, plainly:

1—Immediate ending of all rent increasing.

2—Immediate ending of summary evictions.

3—Immediate relief from those landlords who plan to dispossess tenants after legal notice in order to raise rents.

4—Immediate relief from those landlords who seek to bring about eviction through inadequate service.

5—Immediate ending of the growing practice of refusing to give leases in order to be able to raise rents monthly.

BRIGHTON HARD HIT.

"My district, consisting chiefly of high-class apartment houses, has been harder hit than any other section of Boston by the rent profiteers," explained Representative Hays.

"Not only the fact that the Commission on the Necessaries of Life established as practice the theory that no apartment letting for more than $50 a month came within its jurisdiction, but the fact that this class of tenants keep in the background, has served to keep from public knowledge the facts brought out by the interviews with Commissioner Gannon of Jersey City in the Boston American, that the greatest profiteering has been done in the higher class of apartments.

"Granting that a dollar a month value may be unreasonable and a hardship to the poor family, it also must be admitted that increase of from $40 to $100 a month is no less unreasonable and a hardship to the family with an income of $5,000 a year.

FAIR TO LANDLORDS.

"Neither the poor nor the rich should be specially protected by law. The law must be applicable to everyone. For that reason, as well as because of recent cases of profiteering in store and office rents, which add no less to the general high cost of living, have come to my attention, I believe in a bill which will end all profiteering in all classes of real estate.

"It will be seen that such a bill is also an advantage to real estate 'as a whole. There is no reason why the man owning many apartments which let for small rents should receive a smaller percentage of profits than the man who owns a single large office building.

"My bill will afford every class of tenant in every building adequate protection from profiteering landlords. It will provide a square deal for the landlord by returning him a percentage of profit which no less an authority than the chairman of the special Commission on the Necessaries of Life has himself set as fair and equitable."

WOMAN HELD IN MAINE DEATH

Said to Have Supplied Robbery Motive for Killing Greenville Hotel Man

Lawrence, March 18.—That Mrs. Sadie Rooney supplied the motive for the brutal murder of Robert C. Moore, keeper of a Greenville, Me., hotel, was the assertion made here today when she was arraigned as a fugitive from justice.

City Marshal Timothy O'Brien, in opposing a motion of her counsel that she be discharged, made the statement that the county authorities of Greenville wanted her. They allege that she told William Pomeroy, one of the pair charged with Moore's murder, where Moore kept money and Liberty Bonds.

While from time to time the intimation has been given that robbery was the motive for the murder, nothing definite was made known until Marshal O'Brien's announcement today. Mrs. Rooney, sometimes known as Mrs. Pomeroy, once worked for Moore, and his wife and knew where the money and Liberty Bonds were secreted, it is alleged.

Judge Mahoney after the statements of O'Brien, which were supplemented with the announcement that the authorities of the county in which Greenville is located had asked for her detention until such time as an agent might arrive, ordered Mrs. Rooney held in bonds of $1,000.

John P. Kane, formerly mayor of this city, appeared as counsel for Mrs. Rooney. He argued for her discharge on the grounds that no executive warrant for her arrest had been issued by either Governor Milliken of Maine, or Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts.

They were William Karle, the "champion bugler of Camp Devens," Frank Mohan and Alex Morini. They were released on bonds. According to the police Karle boasted of how many he had "knocked out."

Give Stomach What It Needs

The Alkaline Effect of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Usually Corrects the Stomach Faults that Provoke Attacks of Indigestion or Dyspepsia.

To sit back after a good meal and know there is not going to be sour risings, gas, drowsiness and discomfort is the logical result of using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets immediately after eating. Most people believe they can trace each attack of indigestion to the something they ate and can still "name" it, and it surprises them, invariably, to note how quickly relief comes after using one or two of these tablets. Whether it is highly seasoned food, rich pastry, the heavy, heavy foods or some one particular offender the relief comes just the same. Those who are susceptible to attacks of indigestion or dyspepsia should try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, as they supply the stomach with an alkaline effect just as it does naturally when it is working in a perfectly healthy condition.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are so widely known and used that you can get them in any drug store in the United States and Canada at 50 cents a box.

GOLD EXPORTS MILLION A DAY

U. S. Shipments, Mostly to South America, May Total $400,000,000

By International News Service.

Washington, March 18.—The outflow of American gold to foreign countries now exceeds $1,000,000 a day, reports to the treasury indicated today. Gold exports at this rate for exceed the record marks established last year and heavier demands calling for still large shipments indicate exports may overtop the present high total.

Federal Reserve Board officials today estimated that gold exports for 1920 may reach $400,000,000. Tabulations on shipments of the precious metal abroad show that South America gets the larger share. Practically one-third of gold shipped since January 1 has gone to consignees in Argentina. Almost equally large shipments went to China and Japan.

The steady drain upon American gold supply is but slightly offset by imports, which scarcely amount to one-eighth of exports.

Federal Reserve Board officials saw no occasion for alarm for the heavy exports record now being steadily maintained. Officials pointed to latest figures showing total gold assets of the United States both in gold coin and bullion amounting to $2,165,000,000. This is made up of $425,000,000 gold coin and $1,529,000,000 gold bullion.

As against the great gold supply still available there is listed in Uncle Sam's liabilities column gold certificates outstanding amounting to $594,000,000. The gold settlement fund totals $1,194,000,000. Gold reserve amounts to $152,000,000. There remains $223,426,000 available gold in the general fund.

HEARST PAPERS ARE PRAISED

Pelletier, Awarding Essay Certificates, Pays Tribute to American and Advertiser

"The fine patriotic work of the Boston American and Sunday Advertiser has been nobly followed up by the Ausonia Council, K. of C., in honoring these young men and women," declared District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier, in awarding certificates and medals to Miss Dorothy C. O'Keefe, who received $500 from the Boston American for her Lincoln essay.

Miss Florence L. Bolger, successful in the Advertiser's Washington Essay contest, and Maurice Paladino, Alfred Sartorelli and Angelo Santonuosso, were given silver medals by the American for their compositions on Lincoln.

The presentations took place at the Michael Angelo School Centre, Charter street, under the auspices of the Ausonia Council Americanization Committee. The celebration, Columbus Day and St. Patrick's Day constituted part of the ceremonies which culminated in the trophy to the successful contestants in the contests of the American and Advertiser.

"The American," said District Attorney Pelletier, "has done a notable work in fostering an interest in the lives of our two greatest national heroes, and its example has won the praise of all patriotic citizens."

Michael J. Downey, chairman of the Boston Americanization Committee, praised Mayor Peters as "the First Mayor who carried through the project of the municipal committee for Americanization." "The Knights of Columbus," he said, "have thrown themselves into this mission, and are thus fittingly continuing what they did for the nation during the war. They typify the true spirit of America, offering themselves to all regardless of race or creed."

Henry J. Carey, district deputy, K. of C., described the activities of other councils of the order in educational and patriotic lines.

Professor Joseph H. Sassano, introduced as presiding officer by James J. Bacigalupo, grand knight of the Ausonia Council, declared that the occasion was one of the greatest appropriateness for honoring the American and Advertiser essayists. He told of the work of Washington and St. Patrick, "both of whom were exponents of human betterment, both of whose achievements we commemorate today."

FIND NO TRACE OF MISSING GIRL

14-Year-Old Mary Worcester and Lawrence Mill Worker Are Sought

Lawrence, March 18.—No trace has yet been found of pretty fourteen-year-old Mary Worcester, daughter of Mrs. Louise Worcester, of No. 143 Lawrence street, who is believed to have eloped with a Syrian, a married man, thirty-two years old.

The girl was employed in the mending room of the Arlington Mill. She went out on an errand Saturday night and has not been seen since.

The authorities are of the same belief as the girl's mother, that she is with a man who has been paying attentions to her for several months. This man left his work in the Washington Mill, drew two weeks' pay and disappeared, following his withdrawal of $500 in savings from a local bank. He left behind him a wife and several children.

Goodrum Family Asks for a 'Dry' Name

On the ground that their family name is suggestive of intoxicating liquor, which they declare is annoying and not consistent with their personal tastes, Frank E. Goodrum, his wife, Imogene and two children, Harold L., aged six years, and Marjorie, three years old, petitioned in the Norfolk Probate Court today that their name be changed to Goodwin.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodrum state they desire the change because the name of Goodrum is distasteful and humiliating to them in their business and social relations.

The plea of the children differs from that of their elders in that they say that the name would be troublesome to them in both their business and social careers in later years.

The petition is returnable in April.

in Middy, Jr. Norfolk, button-on, Russian styles

The pictures show only six suits, chosen almost with our eyes shut, from big, fresh, just-unpacked stocks, to sell at eight different prices! And, because we ordered them nearly a year ago, many of these prices are the same as last Spring for the same qualities. Just to look them over is a delight—come see them even if not ready to buy yet. Savings in dressing the little fellow—several long-wearing, fast color wash suits for the price of one indifferent wool suit!

Junior Norfolk, Middy, short Russian and button-on styles in plain colors, stripes, combinations. 3 to 8. $2.50

Middies of white galatea with 2 pairs trousers, one long, one short, blue serge collars, cuffs. 3 to 10. $6

Blue Palmer linen suits, junior Norfolk style with yoke front and back, 4 pleats front, 2 pleats in back. 5 to 10. $5

Plain colors in Middy, button-on and Junior Norfolk styles; also white blouses with plain collars, cuffs, shields, trousers. 3 to 10. $4

Palmer Junior linen in stripes and plain colors; also in Junior Norfolk, Middy and short Russian styles. 3 to 10. $4.50

Middy and short Russian styles in plain colors; and button-on style in plain colors, combinations, white blouses. 3 to 8. $3.50

FIRST-LONG-TROUSER SUITS, $45

New—just unpacked—new style Norfolk coats, with snappy flap-patch pockets, and inverted pleats front and back. In all wool Tweeds, light and dark gray, brown. Plain coat styles, regular pockets and new bell sleeves; all wool; green and brown mixtures; $45, $50. Both kinds, with hand tailoring where it counts; ages 17 to 20.

Topcoats from same materials, $32

By "same materials" we refer to the tweed suits. Patch pockets; raglan shoulders; all-around belt; boxy style; all wool; ages 16 to 20.

'Danceman' Is Latest Fad in Paris

Paris, March 18.—The "danceman," evolved from the "footman" through a generation of cabaret-hunting society leaders, is the latest addition to the smart matron's retinue.

This novel type of flunky has become indispensable through the general complaint that European society women, although very emotional, lack the technicalities of the art and therefore make undesirable dancing partners.

The danceman is required to be good looking, to wear clothes well, dance better and above all to lie of a character that guarantees the respectability of the lady employing him.

He follows his patron at a distance of a yard or so, sits a few feet away from the tea table, moving only when requested by madame to take a turn around the hall.

CHICAGO GIRL CRIPPLED BY SOPHMORE HAZING

Chicago, March 18.—Northwestern University authorities today began an investigation into the hazing of Miss Elizabeth Chapman, president of the freshman class, by which she may be a cripple for life. She was abducted by Vernie Carroll, president of the sophomore class, and Joseph Guthrie, another sophomore, and locked up in a third-story room in the home of Miss Elizabeth Krosseo, a co-ed.

Becoming hysterical, Miss Chapman made a rope out of bed sheets and endeavored to make her escape by sliding down it. The rope gave way, however, and the girl fell three stories to the sidewalk, fracturing an arm and injuring her spine.

Golden Hair Like "Nature's Own"
Women who have trouble keeping their hair in curl, or of securing the desired wave effect, and especially those who realize the harm that the hot iron does to the hair—will do well to try the new slimerine method. In no other way can they acquire such pretty waves and curls, having all the appearance of "Nature's own." And the hair, instead of being singed, ragged or dead looking, has such a lively lustre and wonderful beauty. The coolness is more quickly acquired than when a waving iron is used, and it lasts considerably longer. When the hair is combed out it is soft and fluffy. The hair will be quite amenable, no matter in what fashion it is done up.
If one will get a bottle of plain liquid slimerine at any drug store and follow the accompanying directions, she will be simply delighted with the result. This product is, of course, perfectly harmless, and there is nothing sticky, greasy or unpleasant about it. It is also prized as a splendid dressing for the hair. As a small quantity is required at a time, a few ounces will last for months.—Advertisement.

Buy Diamonds As an Investment

Statistics prove that diamonds have steadily advanced in prices since their discovery.
In view of the fact that diamonds are becoming more difficult to obtain as the mines are being rapidly depleted, it is the consensus of opinion today by both European and American experts that not only will prices continue to advance, but that the increase will undoubtedly be still greater than heretofore, affording the present day purchaser an opportunity from an investment standpoint alone of doubling his money within a few years.

VETS' PROBE BILL IS ADMITTED

Resolutions Demanding Parker Hill Hospital Investigation Accepted by House Body

The House Committee on Rules of the Legislature voted to admit the resolutions advocating an investigation into conditions at Parker Hill hospital. The hearing room was crowded with wounded and sick veterans of the World War, some of them still patients at the hospital, others discharged patients.

The complaints from patients included improper food, neglect, and lack of treatment and other abuses.

The bill, which is fathered by Representatives Mulvey and Carey of Boston and Murphy of Chelsea, was spoken for by each of these representatives. Representative Mulvey afterward introducing the complaining veterans.

Representative Mulvey said he had no idea of creating unnecessary trouble, but that complaints from his district had become so numerous, that it seemed to him something should be done about the conditions by the General Court.

Representative Carey read complaints from several veterans who were unable to leave their beds, while Representative Murphy compared the hospital situation to the conditions that called forth an investigation of the Rutland Sanitorium with such salutary effect.

FOUND CONDITIONS "ROTTEN."

Sergeant George E. Wilson, formerly of the 101st Infantry and now State organizer of the American Legion, was the first speaker for the proponents. He said that at first, when these individual complaints had begun to come in a few months ago, the organization had not paid great attention to them, being well aware of the instinct of soldiers to complain. But when they began to be general he said the organization determined upon an investigation and he was given the duty.

"I investigated the hospital from 11 o'clock until 2:30 in the afternoon," he said. "That was quite enough for me. The men who were maimed in the trenches of France, to have become the victims of tuberculosis through gas poisoning, do not want coddling. They want a little sympathy, perhaps, but particularly treatment. They want to get well. Conditions there are rotten.

TAGUE PROMISES PROBE.

"I questioned sixty bed patients. Fifty-eight of these complained of the food and neglect. One man had been dismissed from the hospital because he complained. I myself took him to No. 101 Milk street, where the doctors immediately said he needed treatment and promptly sent him back."

Congressman Peter F. Tague was noticed in the room by Representative Martin Hays and was asked to speak. "I came here as a spectator," he said, "not to take an active part. But I am amazed that such conditions are possible in this State and in this country. I am a member of a hospitalization committee of Congress which purposes to spend eighty-five million dollars of the people's money for hospitals. We know that hospitals are overcrowded, that there are not enough hospitals, but there is enough money to give any hospital whatever it needs, and the conditions such as these men complain of should never be permitted to exist."

The Congressman drew applause from the veterans when he concluded by saying: "I guarantee that there will be an investigation by Congress. Now that I am here I intend to visit these hospitals in my district and will prolong my trip for that purpose."

CROWD APPROVES PROBE.

"There is nothing in this that is done for political effect. The whole thing is too solemn and too big to allow that element to enter."

When Chairman B. Loring Young of the committee asked the proponents of the bill to stand practically the entire room, which was crowded, rose to a man.

"ROBBING" OF MINES DENOUNCED BY SPROUL

Scranton, Pa., March 18.—"This is the worst bit of destruction I have ever seen," said Governor Sproul after a visit of inspection to the mine cave zone of West Scranton at the request of Mayor Connell. The Governor was shown streets and dwellings undermined as a result of the "pillar robbing" operations of the mining companies.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfil the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and voluntary testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfils almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcels Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention the Boston American. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

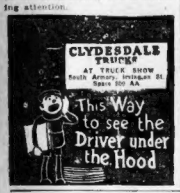
SAVING BY AUTO SPARK INDICATOR

The Auto Spark Indicator has many advantages. By the use of the spark indicator it is said you get a larger and more intense spark, resulting in quick firing and consequent saving of gas. It also saves batteries and it locates your troubles. It tells you which cylinder is missing. This little device can be seen at the auto show in the South Armory and is attracting attention.



ARMORY SHOW IS WELL STAGED

Every Known Automotive Apparatus Displayed in Irvington Street Building

Don't miss the Auto Show in the Irvington Street Armory!

In every way it is just as complete as the big show in Mechanics Building. There are eighty-eight exhibitors in the armory, and included in the display are many passenger cars and trucks that are new to the New England market. The accessory department at the armory is a "whale" of a display. It is crowded with novelties.

There is no kind of automotive apparatus that is being shown in the larger building that can't be found in the armory. The display is much larger and more varied than the exhibition in Grand Hall, Mechanics Building. The decorations are beautiful and an orchestra plays continuously. Manager Campbell is quite proud of the exhibit at the armory, and advises all who attend the show not to fail to visit the armory.

The exhibits are staged in a very war-like atmosphere. The U. S. Navy's aviation and ordnance department occupies one end of the armory. The exhibit includes huge coast defence motors and disappearing guns, a Liberty motor, a Hispano Suiza airplane motor and a variety of their parts.

R. R. Winburn, general manager of the Old-Timers' Club, is in town and opened headquarters in room No. 542 Copley-Plaza. The Old-Timers' Club now has a membership of 5,000 men who have spent five years or more in the automobile industry. For each five years the members have a star added to their button. As Boston has hundreds of veterans in the industry, Manager Winburn hopes to enroll the majority of them before the show ends.

To Handle Mother's Estate

Hilla M. Lowell of Somerville has been appointed as administratrix of the estate of her mother, Mrs. Alice M. Lowell of Somerville, who died December 6 1919. She has given a bond of $20,000. The estate is valued at $15,500.

Has a Car Dressing That Protects

B. D. PERKINS.

U-Sav-Your must be seen to be appreciated by the owners of automobiles. This product is being exhibited at the auto show, space 626.

B. D. Perkins, manager of the U-Sav-Your Manufacturing Company, Warren, Mass., in speaking of U-Sav-Your auto dressing, said: "We guarantee that the product will do all we say and more. If you desire your car to look nice and cause you very little labor, try our dressing. It will not gather dust. It does not scratch and does not hurt the varnish. It does not leave any oily surface. You can clean your car without water. Prolongs the life of a car and keeps a car looking like new."

LAMBERT 'TRUBLEPRUF' TIRES AROUSE INTEREST

The most vexing problem of the automobile seems to be solved. The Lambert "Trublpruf" Tires are said to give much greater mileage when subjected to the same usage, and when cared for as directed, as to make them more economical than pneumatics. They are also said to be absolutely free from all fictitious trouble peculiar to air compression in tires, and are a novelty for the motorist who is looking for a substitute for pneumatic tires.

Willward & Langley, N. E. distributors, No. 11 White street, Waverley, Mass., report much interest in their exhibit at the South Armory.

WHY INDUSTRIES QUIT BOSTON

The answer to this all-important question is given by William L. Fairbanks, director of the Massachusetts Commission on Foreign and Domestic Commerce, in a brilliant article especially prepared for next Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser. He says that a disposition to make excuses rather than to face facts and apply remedies, tolerance of intolerable handicaps and lack of pride are the main reason for the present lethargy. All citizens in any way interested in Boston's future will find Mr. Fairbanks' summing-up of extreme interest.

MILLIONAIRE INDIAN'S WIFE SUES GUARDIANS

Topeka, Kan., March 18.—Conspiracy to keep her $3,000,000 Indian husband in an "uncivilized state" was charged by Mrs. Jackson Barnet, against O. J. O'Hernett, his guardian, Cato Sells, Indian commissioner, James C. Davies, Creek Indian attorney, and Gabe Parker.

O'Hernett is suing to annul the marriage into which he alleges his ward was "kidnaped" and Mrs. Barnett turned the tables by seeking an injunction in the Kansas Supreme Court, which would permanently prevent him from interfering with the marriage.

BRITAIN TRIED TO MAKE AMERICA CATSPAW

Writes Maximilian Harden, the famous German editor, in a brilliant article, discussing the effects of English diplomacy at the Peace Conference. He further states that "the English tried to unload Constantinople and its problems upon the United States. Imperialism of Great Britain has realized its final goal in Africa, Asia and Asia Minor; America, disillusioned, turns her back upon Europe." The clear and convincing statement of facts appears next Sunday in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

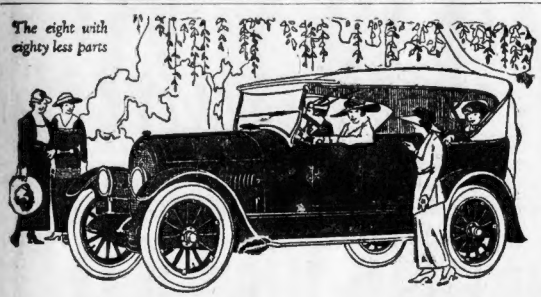
DAY NURSERIES MAY CLOSE IN LAWRENCE

Lawrence, March 18.—It is probable that some of the seventeen day nurseries now operating in this city, where mothers who work in the mills leave their tots each morning and noon, will go out of business if the drastic health regulations imposed by the State are executed by the local health officials. The conditions in some of the nurseries in this city were cited as poor by the Child Welfare Department.

HAVERHILL TO RAISE $30,000 FOR FIREMEN

Haverhill, March 18.—As a result of the collision between a fire truck and an electric in this city two weeks ago, causing the deaths of Firemen George E. Taylor and Henry Christensen, an organization of prominent business men has been perfected to open a "Citizens' Firemen's Relief Fund" drive to secure $30,000, to be held in trust, the interest to be disbursed for needy and distressed firemen and their families.



Apperson Shows More Than Beauty

Accomplishment—power, speed, dependability, comfort, economy—these are the things Apperson is exhibiting in addition to the grace of line and color and finish that are Apperson's visible signs of interior perfection.

These are results. Dynamic America demands results and Apperson produces them—more power than you will need on road or hill; a simplified motor with eighty less parts, yet flexible, so that Apperson glides in high from one mile an hour to 40-mile speed in 20 seconds; swoops to a dead stop from 40-mile speed in 4 seconds—40 yards; turns in a 38¾ foot circle, with 130 inch wheel base.

These are results you can check up for yourself by riding in an Apperson. Do this first, then decide what car to buy.

APPERSON AUTO PLANT GROWS

Desert Old Kokomo, Indiana, Offices, Where Many Motor Discoveries Were Made

Down in Kokomo, Indiana, the Apperson Brothers are packing up the old shop offices. They are turning them over to the janitor — and history.

Year after year, the Apperson business has been growing because the world insisted on making a pathway to the door of the little shop in Kokomo. But despite this growth of the business, the Apperson Brothers have insisted on sticking to the little old-fashioned offices in which they made their start.

For over a quarter of a century these offices have been in a building on the banks of the Wildcat—a little creek which runs through the city of Kokomo.

It was here they conceived and built with their own hands the first mechanically successful automobile.

Therefore, this spot has meant in the automotive world what Dayton, O., has meant in aerial navigation.

The Apperson Brothers have remained on this historic spot, trail breaking year after year with new basic discoveries that have become a part of automobile science. Their field and their genius have been for the development and improvement of the motor car.

PIERCE-ARROW'S ENGINE SUPERB

Dual-Valve Six Gains Fame as Result of Astonishing Performances

Dual-Valve engine efficiency is seen in its highest stage of development in the Pierce-Arrow passenger car dispalyed at the Auto Show this week. Because of the fame gained through the astonishing performance of the perfected engine, the improved Pierce-Arrow Dual-Valve Six promises is commanding great interest at the exhibit.

"It is an engine that answers every whim of the driver," says J. W. Maguire. "It can crawl along at four miles an hour and suddenly spurt to a racing speed; it can ascend the steepest hill with a powerful sureness that frees the minds of passengers from anxiety.

"There is a mechanical reason, of course, for the remarkable increased flexibility, power and speed of the Dual-Valve Six. Because there are two exhaust and two intake valves for each cylinder, instead of one each, the 'breathing' capacity of each cylinder is increased enormously. Dead gases, which if not expelled completely would contaminate and deaden the incoming explosive mixture, are exhausted perfectly. Likewise a full charge of fresh vapor is assured through the double intake valves."

Most striking of all is the fact that because of a 39 per cent. increase in engine efficiency, as compared with former engines with similar stroke and bore, the Dual-Valve engine is far more economical in gasoline consumption.

In terms of power, the identification of Pierce-Arrow cars as 38 and 48 h. p. models gives no conception of the force that actually is generated. The actual horse power developed is enormously greater than that indicated.

Show Is Praised by Late Comers

Among the arrivals to attend the closing days of the auto show was Arthur Holmes, president of the Holmes Automobile Company of Canton, O. With Mr. Holmes was Charles Rockwell, vice-president and sales manager of the company.

Speaking the show, Mr. Holmes said: "Despite your snow and bad weather, Boston seems to have the annual touch of Spring in its show-time atmosphere. During the past sixteen years I have not missed one of your exhibitions and I always leave feeling that the motoring season is at last started and that Boston is setting the pace for the rest of the country.

"The demonstrating models lined up along Huntington avenue look strangely familiar, however different they may be from the cars of last year in lines."

During their visit here Mr. Holmes and Mr. Rockwell will spend much of their time with James C. Tate, manager of the Holmes Motors, Inc., local distributor for the Holmes car, lining up the New England States for the coming twelve months.

IRISH PRELATES PROTEST PARTITION OF IRELAND

Cardinal Logue and other prominent dignitaries of the Catholic Church in Ireland have sent to America a striking symposium of conditions as they are in Ireland. This symposium will be printed exclusively in the Sunday Advertiser next Sunday. It is pointed out that the present intolerable conditions of life in the island are due mainly to the absolute failure of the peace delegates to recognize the rights of the Irish people.

DOUBLE DEMAND FOR BRISCOES

Enlarge Factory Facilities to Meet Enormous Need of Discriminating Buyers

"The most conservative estimate that I can make of the 1920 demand, based on reports from the Briscoe dealers and the auto show, is that it will double the demand of any previous season," says A. J. Shorey, president of the New England Velie Company, who distributes the Briscoe products for the six New England States.

"Every effort is being made to meet demand by increasing production. Factory capacity in all the manufacturing departments is being increased.

"By the purchase of the plant of the Bohnet Company of Lansing, Mich., one of the largest manufacturers in the country, every facility for building all the bodies for Briscoe closed models has been acquired. It will be necessary, however, to make several additional improvements to the present plant in order to take care of the 1920 demand, although present indications point to the possibility of being unable to fully meet the enormous demand before 1921.

"The Briscoe has become very popular here in New England and our business on this sturdy, powerful, lightweight car is only limited by the number we can secure from the big Briscoe factory."

Women in Dickens Play

The Arlington Woman's Club gave its annual dramatic production this afternoon in the Robbins Memorial Town Hall, staging a dramatization of Dickens' "Our Mutual Friend."

'L' TO DISCARD SMALL CARS

Service improvements in nearly all lines of the Boston Elevated Railway Company will be made during the company year, involving an expenditure of $5,735,000, according to a statement issued by General Manager Edward Dana in which he explains just how the money will be expended.

Not only will the trolley service be improved by the installation of 65 all-steel elevated and 105 surface trolleys, but plans have been made to enlarge the maintenance and technical departments of the railway system. New motors will be provided for 47 semi-convertible trolleys and many of the smaller type discarded entirely.

20-FOOT CARS TO GO.

General Manager Dana's statement says:

"There will be provided sixty-five all-steel elevated cars to replace an equivalent number of wooden cars now twenty years old. Also 105 modern centre-entrance surface cars of improved design and construction, as compared with the present cars, which it is tentatively contemplated to operate on the Milton-Andrew Square-Meeting House Hill line, the Franklin Park-Columbia Road-Andrew Square line, the Seaver street-Humboldt avenue-Blue Hill avenue line, Harvard Square to Dudley street line, Lexington street, East Boston, to Bowdoin Square line, Salem street-Winter Hill-Sullivan Square line and Cypress street-Huntington avenue-Park street subway line.

"These cars will release small type box cars and articulated cars and permit a reassignment of semi-convertible cross-seat cars to the West Roxbury district. It will be possible to completely remove from service the twenty-foot articulated cars. Thirty one-man cars are to be provided on lines such as Broadway, Cambridge; Central avenue, Chelsea; North Beacon street, etc., which feed main lines. In order to provide an increase in service without additional cost and new cars in place of old cars where the large type cars cannot be utilized to advantage.

NEW "L" ADDITION.

"New motors will be provided for all of the forty-seven No. 2 type semi-convertible cars, as well as new motors for elevated cars. Four large steel dump cars will be provided for efficient work in the maintenance department and six new units added to the snow equipment—in part sweepers and part plows. The signal system through the Washington street tunnel and from Sullivan Square to the Washington street tunnel will be completely renewed, which will improve the operation of elevated trains and permit an increase in service.

HOLMES
Improved Air Cooled

—fleetest of foot on the road

It's on country roads the Holmes makes its strongest appeal.

Where other cars must slow down to 18-20 miles an hour the Holmes swings along at 30-40 in boulevard comfort.

Up mountain sides where other cars steam and boil the Holmes pulls its full load without thought of cooling troubles.

At the end of the day's run the mileage on the speedometer proves the Holmes to be the fastest of all road cars—and the freedom from fatigue that you feel proves it to be the most comfortable.

And this is the car that you may throttle down to 3 miles an hour on high in traffic—that you may handle in the worst jam without fear of stalling since the starting system makes the motor non-stallable—that in winter you may leave anywhere on the coldest days without fear of freezing.

And the service that makes such strong appeal is obtained on:

—18-20 miles to the gallon of gasoline;
—10,000 miles to the set of tires;

In a car carrying 7 passengers in full comfort in the touring model.

Masdon Heater Shown at Auto Exhibit

The evolution and development of heating is an interesting subject, and certain phases of it are of importance to anyone who is considering the question of heating a garage. The heating of the small one and two-car garage efficiently and economically has been a serious problem with motorists.

The Masdon garage heater is on exhibition at the Auto Show. Walter A. Clapp & Co., the local distributors, are enthusiastic over its reception at the show.

GROWING DEAF WITH HEAD NOISES? TRY THIS

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness, or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who is threatened with Catarrhal Deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Advertisement.

'LIGHT' SAVERS FORCE ISSUE

Fight to Secure Passage of Emergency Preamble, Following Initial Victory

Following the initial victory in the House, the champions of daylight saving were today mustering their strength to secure the adoption of an emergency preamble in order that the clocks may be set ahead this Summer.

Unless the emergency preamble is adopted, the law would not become effective until ninety days had elapsed from its passage, part of the Summer would be gone and the farmers would probably circulate initiative and Referendum petitions to put the matter up to the voters at the next State election.

The vote in the House, ordering the bill to a third reading, was 136 to 44. The adoption of an emergency preamble will require a two-thirds majority vote. The bill had sixteen votes more than the necessary two-thirds and the advocates expect that that strength will be maintained in the successive legislative stages.

In reply to the representatives from the agricultural communities, Representative Monk of Watertown said that the bill is opposed by 26,000 farmers and is desired by 130,000 industrial workers in this State. "Which group shall be regarded?" he asked.

Representative Stone of Boston said that clocks are a human invention and that the setting of them back does not interfere with the laws of nature.

Local Censorship Is Best, Says Senator

SENATOR GEORGE E. CURRAN

3 LEGISLATORS RAP FILM BILL

State Senator Curran of Boston Says Movie Censor Board Superfluous

Three legislators, Senator George E. Curran of Boston and Representatives Walter Haynes of Scituate and John J. Carey of Dorchester, have joined in the opposition to the motion picture State censorship bill before the Legislative Committee on Mercantile Affairs, and today declared that the bill was unnecessary.

Senator Curran said that the National Board of Review, composed of representatives of social, religious and charitable organizations, has had the support and approval of big-minded citizens in all parts of the country, and in his belief was fully capable of censoring all films.

"The constructive and preventive service which the Board of Review has rendered," said Senator Curran, "is well known and deserves highest commendation.

FILMS BETTER NOW.

"The moving pictures furnish amusement that is nearest to the masses. I know that the Committee on Mercantile Affairs will do their duty and that their judgment on this matter can be relied upon."

Representative Haynes said: "I believe that I occupy the unique position of being the only member of the General Court who is engaged in the motion picture business. I am proprietor of three small houses, one in my own town, one in Hingham and one in Marshfield. Two of these houses I keep open the year round, and the one in Marshfield I keep open five months in the year.

"I might also state that I have been connected with the industry almost from its start. I have seen the gradual growth of the business, and have seen a decided growth in the character of the films for the better in the past five or six years. I cannot recall in a period covering at least the last three years where I have had a single complaint from any of my patrons in regard to the class of picture I have been exhibiting.

CHURCHES USE FILMS.

"From time to time in two of the towns, Scituate and Hingham, I have been asked to put on special productions for the benefit of the churches of different denominations. Invariably I have asked them whether they cared to put on the show themselves, whether they wanted to select the pictures or whether they wished me to select the pictures and what kind of pictures they desired. Almost invariably they have said to me: 'If you can give use the same sort of shows you give on your regular nights it will be perfectly satisfactory to us.'"

Representative Carey said: "I come from a district in Boston where there are six motion picture houses. Two of these hold 2,000 people each, and I have yet to hear one complaint from one of my constituents in regard to the pictures and in favor of this legislation."

SISTER TO CONTEST LAWRENCE MAN'S WILL

Lawrence, March 18.—Relatives of the late Phillip A. McCarthy, prominent business man, are contesting his will, leaving most of an estate of $42,000 to Miss Mary J. Shinnick, principal of the Walton School. Judge Harry R. Dow of the Probate Court has issued a certificate for jury trial of the case. The allegation is that Mr. McCarthy was not mentally normal in his last illness. His sister, Mrs. Margaret Morrissey, asks that the will be set aside.

O'SULLIVAN NOT TO TOUR ERIN

Popular Tenor Forced to Cancel Trip by Action of British Authorities

John O'Sullivan, the Irish tenor of the Chicago Opera Company, will not make a tour of Ireland in May as had been arranged. Mr. O'Sullivan's manager, Thomas Quinlan, of Dublin, one of the best known musical impresarios in the world, has sent O'Sullivan a carefully guarded letter in which he states that conditions in Ireland will not permit such a tour.

As all arrangements had been made and a large subscription had been secured in several of the leading Irish cities, this is taken to mean that the British government has stepped in and forbidden the tour.

During the past season in America O'Sullivan has not only sung "The Wearin' o' the Green" to all his concerts, but he has not hesitated to sing Victor Herbert's timely song "When Ireland Stands Among the Nations of the World," the sentiments of which are decidedly anti-British.

The first time O'Sullivan announced this song, last Spring, he received a visit from an Englishman, who informed him that if he did not refrain from singing political songs he would not be given his passports to return to France.

O'Sullivan sang the song, and had no difficulty with his passports. He spent the Summer in France and returned to this country last Fall.

Mr O'Sullivan, who sang for the Knights of Columbus in Chicago last Sunday, was asked in that city if he thought the British government had any hand in the cancellation of his Irish tour.

"I know nothing about it," he said "I sing the songs I feel in my heart I would sooner not go to Ireland than permit my programs to be censored. But all the letter said was should not take place at this time."

WOMAN'S STORY SENDS VERMONTER TO PRISON

Newport, Vt., March 18.—A woman's revenge has resulted in the sentence of Arthur Fountain to two and one half years in the State prison at Windsor, after he had been found guilty of stealing silk stockings, cloaks, shoes and other articles from the Boston & Maine transfer shed here.

Fountain had made many presents to Mrs. Jennie Kinney. Later they quarreled and the woman, in a fit of anger, it is alleged, wrote a letter to a railroad official informing him of Fountain's thefts.

IRISH BOND DRIVE IS EXTENDED TWO WEEKS FOR GRAND FINISH

To enable workers to reach every family of Irish birth or extraction in Boston and other cities and towns in the State which have not reached the quota allotted to the drive for $1,000,000 in the Irish bond drive, the American Commission on Irish Independence today announced that the sale of bonds will continue two weeks longer.

Arrangements were made today for a number of rallies in all sections of the State to be addressed by prominent speakers. This is due to the fact that some cities and towns have been late in starting the drive. State Chairman John F. Horrigan of the Friends of Irish Freedom urges committees in these places to put public meetings to arouse interest in the drive.

Prominent among the cities that are just getting busy on the drive is Medford, where Edward J. Gaffey, chairman of the local committee, has arranged for a monster mass meeting in the Medford Theatre, Salem street, this Sunday afternoon. Several prominent speakers will be present. Edward F. McSweeney of Boston, former U. S. Dist. Atty. Daly of Medford and Miss Minnie Mulvey of Boston, The quota for Medford is $5,000, and it is expected that it will be raised in a few days, as promises of large subscriptions have been made.

More than $5,000 was raised on Boston Common by the sale of bonds as a result of the rally held there Approximately $7,000 was raised from the sale of bonds at headquarters. P. J. Moynihan, assistant director of the drive in the State, today declared that there is yet needed $150,000 to bring the quota up to a million dollars. He announced that a telegram was received from Frank P. Walsh from New York authorizing the continuation of the drive.

Returns from Chelsea today made public by the American Commission on Irish Independence show that the Rev. William F. Powers bought a $100 bond. Other subscriptions in that city follow:

Division 10 Ancient Order of Hibernians, $100; Mayor Meade, $25; Breen, $50; Michael J. Sweeney, $50; John Horgan, $50; John Turner, $50; John Horgan, $20; Francis P. Nealon, $25; Patrick Cowhig, $25; James Connolly, $25; Dennis Sullivan, $25; Jeremiah Cotter, $25; Lawrence P. Buckley, $25; Jeremiah Murphy, $25; John J. Buckley, $25; Patrick J. Murphy, $25; City of Chelsea Employes' Union, Local No. 35, $25.

Patrick O'Doherty is chairman of the Chelsea committee, assisted by Frank D. Golden, secretary, and Thomas F. Driscoll, treasurer. The drive is for $10 000 in that city, and to date more than $4 000 has been collected.

Made with Style—E Mold

Fruits 2½c
Per serving. Bottled fruits in Jiffy-Jell desserts

This is a season when fruits are scarce and costly, yet everybody needs fruit daily.

In Jiffy-Jell you get real fruit in abundance. Crushed fruit essence comes in the package, sealed in glass.

For 2½ cents per serving—the cost of an apple—you serve a real-fruit dainty, rich in fruit. And you have eight fruits on call.

Millions are doing it

Millions are enjoying real fruit in this form. If you do not, you are missing rare delights.

Jiffy-Jell comes ready-sweetened. It comes acidulated with lemon or grape acid. So you simply add water, then the fruit-juice essence from the vial, and cool in molds.

One package serves six people in mold form, or twelve if you whip the jell. And it costs you less than the fruit alone.

Found in Jiffy-Jell only

Jiffy-Jell differs vastly from the old-style gelatine desserts. Its fruits are not mere flavors.

We crush the fruit, condense the juice and seal it in a bottle, so its fragrant freshness keeps.

Jiffy-Jell is rich in fruit. We crush, for instance, half a pineapple to flavor one dessert. The fruit is crushed in Hawaii—fruit too ripe to ship.

No other like dessert brings you real fruit in this liquid form in glass. Learn how much this means.

Try several Jiffy-Jell desserts. Also try Lime-fruit flavor to make a tart green salad jell. Try Mint flavor for mint jell to serve with meats.

Then send us the trade-marks for molds, etc., so you can serve it attractively. Do this now.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

On legal affidavit, John Hart Brittain, business man, certified to this: "My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. An expert said that he thought the hair roots were atrophied, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth.

"Yet now, at an age over 66, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! Notarized affidavits and photographs here are from my photographs." Mr. Brittain certified further:

INDIAN'S SECRET OF HAIR GROWTH

"It's a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian medicine man' who had an elixir that he asseverated would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and here is my hair as visible as in my youthful days.

That I was astonished and happy is expressing my state of mind mildly.

Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious formula.

I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious elixir, called Kotalko, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist.

That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved."

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

It has been proved in very many cases that hair roots did not die when the hair fell out. Instead, they remained in a dormant, inactive or certain other hair or scalp disorders. Miss A. D. Otto reports:

"About a month ago my hair began to fall out. I would my scalp in spots was almost entirely bald. I used everything that was recommended but was always disappointed. Then I got a bottle of Kotalko. My bald spots are being covered over; my hair is already thicker than three inches." S. W. Mitchell reports:

"I had spots on my head over which hair is now growing since I used Kotalko." Mrs. Matilda Mauer reports: "The whole front of my head was as bald as the palm of my hand for about 15 years. Kotalko's hair is growing all over the place that is now a more splendid growth from satiated roots.

Wanted for Big Positions---Men of Blood and Iron---Men of Force Stamina, Power and Success

The Kind of Men Nuxated Iron Helps to Make

Physician Tells How Many Men Fall Just Short of Winning the $10,000 to $100,000 Positions Because They Don't Back Up Their Brains with the Physical Strength and Energy That Come from Plenty of Iron in the Blood.

How Nuxated Iron often Increases the Red Blood, Energy and Endurance of Nervous, Weak and Run-Down Men in Two Weeks' Time.

It is the men of blood and iron who master the nerve-racking jobs. They have the strength, power and endurance to overcome obstacles and withstand the strain of long hours and hard work. They are the ones who are chosen for the big positions that pay from $10,000 to $100,000 a year, and their red-blooded, tireless energy is what enables them to hold these positions and often become leading figures of Industry and commercial life.

In his advice to men on how to build up their health and strength and attain greatest success, Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly of Bellevue Hospital Outdoor Department, New York, and Westchester County Hospital, says: "The big, successful men I have met are almost always strong physically—men with red blood, rich in iron, men of personality, of virile power which instantly commands respect. Many an ambitious man who would normally rise to the top gives up all his dreams in his prime because he lacks the necessary stamina, grit and power to go after the big things. He feels just short of winning the $10,000 to $100,000 positions because he doesn't back up his mentality with the physical energy which comes from plenty of iron in the blood. Lack of iron in the blood often makes a man a physical weakling, nervous, easily fatigued, and it utterly robs him of that well-poised, self-confident, aggressive, forceful energy, or nerve force, or courage and power in every walk of life. To help make men strong and red-blooded there is nothing so effective as Nuxated Iron, which I have found so valuable as organic iron. In case after case I have seen Nuxated Iron begin to give a weak, nervous chap entirely new vigor, energy and endurance in only two weeks' time.

"Therefore, I strongly advise those who want to be themselves to receive and hold big positions to get a physician's prescription for organic iron—Nuxated Iron—and begin to take it at once. You do not want to go to this to-day and then purchase only a Nuxated Iron tablet, but you should see that you get Nuxated Iron in its original package, and that this particular name (Nuxated Iron) appears on the package. If you have fallen down into poor health and failed to get results from some other iron preparation, remember that any ordinary nothing like Nuxated Iron, which is strongly recommended above, is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black or upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by Baker Jarvis-Liggetts and all other good druggists.

Like Atlas of Old the successful business man of today is a man of blood and iron, easily able to carry his burden of responsibility.

This Man Gets $100,000 A Year because he backs up his brains with the physical strength and energy that come from plenty of iron in his blood.

If you are not as successful as you'd like to be—if you lack force and stamina—try Nuxated Iron and watch its strength-giving effect.

Do You Wish You Had a Car Like This?

The men with the red blood and strength to get and hold the big positions want a car like this, also get the luxuries of life. To help make men strong and red-blooded there is nothing so effective as Nuxated Iron, physicians say.

For two weeks and see how you are getting back your old energy and ambition, how fine you feel and how much stronger and more vigorous you are. Nuxated Iron is used by over 3,000,000 people annually to build up red blood, strength and endurance.

Nuxated Iron, which is recommended above, is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black or upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. GIANTS LOOK LIKE PINHEADS FROM 5,000 FEET UP, SAYS BAER

RESULT OF GAME BIG MYSTERY

No Way of Telling What Happened, Even From Front Row Seat in Airplane

By BUGS BAER

San Antonio, Tex., March 18.—A lad by the name of McGraw couldn't launch St. Paddy's Day in a better spot than a place labeled Kelly Field. So teacher took his pupils out to play the Aviators. Something new was jerked when an escadrille of sporting writers left San Antonio and flapped over the field a few days. We were going through the gestures five thousand country feet below. A country foot is the little cousin to a country mile.

We don't want to slip the Giants any unearned increment, but at a height of 5,000 foot fuiers all the players looked like pinheads. We ain't saying they are pinheads, but they looked like 'em at that dizzy perch. Colonel Miller, the command ant of Kelly Field, assigned Hugs Baer to Lieutenant Delmat Dunton of the Bullshevik Escadrille.

Contest Like Flea Circus

A baseball game looks very much like a flea circus from the clouds. One slip to a yam who can get all the aviation he wants right in a Sears-Roebuck instalment Morris chair. Between tail-spins, zooming and barrel rolls a guy has almost as much trouble keeping his mind on the game as he has keeping his dinner on his stomach.

Hop-and-a-Half Mose, the demon trainer, has attached himself to the Giants' little group of willful trainers. He distracted himself pronto when he found out that he had pulled a winning number in a flying lottery. Step said he wasn't skeered of one flight, but he was skeered of getting the brass ring. Much safer riding on a Brooklyn street car, where you don't have far to fall when a R. R. T. improver puts your golden curls in a blackjack alloyed with a baser material.

No Way of Telling Game's Results

We don't know how the game went, but Kelly Field was leading the last time we looked over the field of the fuselage. Loot Dunton was just coming out of a tail-spin when we went Democratic and flipped into a vertical spin of our own. The wild geese flying north collected their dinners right there on the wing.

At the earnest solicitation of a plebiscite of inhabitants in the passenger cabin, Dunton consented to drop to three thousand feet, which at least enables a guy to look fondly at the land where he is paying an income tax, greasing the landlords, oiling the bill collector and trying to make both ends meet without the help of a mint julep or horse's neck. At three thousand feet the players looked like slightly larger pinheads, and Step-and-a-Half Mose's bunions stood out in bold relief.

Finally Reaches Terra Firma

Dunton then tossed off the falling leaf stunt, and the family stomach thought it was Autumn, when all the leaves fall. It didn't do anything this time, as there was nothing left in the pantry for an encore. The Dee-Mavlander then came out of his spasm at two thousand feet, with the players still looking like pinheads and freckles on Red Boyle's face resembled a relief map of the Great Lakes at high tide. We were rapidly approaching the terra firma admiration, and for some reason we were Medina Dam glad of it.

A couple of weeks soons, a nose dive and a loop and Texas was within easy falling distance. Dunton landed right on the table. Funny how easy you get when the wheels are on the carpet. There wasn't a more impudent bunch of birds in the world than that bunch of escadrille sporting writers, and there won't be a healthier looking bunch when they get their color back and their knees stop shaking for the drinks, a proceeding which is useless, as they shake in vain.

SCOTT NOW ONLY BRAVE HOLDOUT

Grant May Endeavor to Effect Compromise; Jones Has Quit Game

By NICK FLATLEY.

Columbus, Ga., March 18.—George W. Grant has only one holdout pitcher to work on now that John Paul Jones has decided that the baseball pennant can be pulled to the peak without his assistance. Because of the weakness in the box, which threatens the hopes of the C. W. undoubtedly will try to see if North Carolina John Scott is really serious.

John has been holding out for more than two weeks but then these gents never really are taken seriously until a score or more chuckers of the game have been lost. He has to pass the Winter in Hickory, N. C., which ought to make him willing to pitch for the exercise and to get away in the Summer, but then this is the age of progress and John may have taken a course in political economy, whatever that is, since he bought this ticket home last Fall.

However, as the poets say, Grant would rather have John at Columbus than John at Rickaway, so there may be a meet-your-half-way proposition which may be satisfactory to the party of the first part and also to the second part.

Baseball No Longer Lures Jones

John Paul Jones, whose name ought to get him by especially on rainy days, has wired Grant that baseball no longer has the same old lure and that Jonesy prefers to spend the Summer and his loose change in Arcadia. He is rated as a smart pitcher and Mickey O'Neil, the new Braves' catcher, who was in the International League last season, declares that Jones always looked the goods to him. All of which does not cause any ripples of smiles on this reservation.

Well, the Bustling Braves are back here against after two days' respasal. It's conducted tour through the wilds of Georgia, on which they meet the champions of the Tri-State and Bill Clymer twice and each time turned in the low-set cards.

The Braves are in a slump, having lost to the Yannigans and then twice to Columbus and if there is anything in signs the Yannigans are due to take a high dive if Manager George T. Stallings decides to resume his practice games, as he undoubtedly will. The weather is great, something like Boston produces in the middle of July, and the athletes naturally are bound to get going during the next day or two.

DINSMORE, Y. D. CHAMP, WHIPS 3 AT B. A. A. BOUTS

Bobby Dinsmore, lightweight amateur champion of the Yankee Division, won three more bouts last night in the B. A. A. amateur tournament. The former doughboy is at present a student at Huntington School and his latest conquest was a decision at twelve wins all by the knockout route since he returned from the front.

H. Rohlin of Worcester, New England champion of the Yankee Division, also threw more leather around and defeated Steve Lavoie in a special bout.

Arthur Heuser, of Roxbury, beat W. Hyde of the U. S. S. New Jersey in the 115-pound class.

James Moran of the Y. M. C. A. won the final in the 116-pound class, stopping Wm. Hyde of the U. S. S. New Jersey in the second round.

J. Jeannett, of East Boston, won the 145-pound class, after his opponent, Charles Bohannon, of Roxbury, broke his hand and could not continue.

BOSTON WOMAN REACHES SEMI-FINALS IN TENNIS

New York, March 18.—Miss Edith Sigourney of Boston was numbered among the semi-finalists in the women's national indoor tennis tournament today. Miss Helena Pellak, New York, Mrs. Inez Hartmann, Lake Champlain champion, and Miss Corona Winn, New York, were the other semi-finalists.

FIGHTS FOR TIA JUANA.

Tom Jones and Jack Kearns who are running twenty-round bouts near Coyote's Tia Juana race track in Mexico, are trying to sign up two big events for next month.

The first is between Jack Johnson, who is still in Mexico City, and Bill Tate, sparring partner of Jack Dempsey.

Johnson has demanded $1,000 for expenses and asks one-third of the gross receipts. The club has sent a man to see Johnson and will hear from him this week.

Benny Leonard will figure in the other bout and the chances are that Battling Ortega, the Oakland middleweight, will be his opponent.

Leonard fared so well against Hartfield here that Billy Gibson figures Ortega about as dangerous and is willing to have Benny go on with him.

The promoters are now dickering with Ortega. The bout if held will be for twenty rounds.

Fred Fulton is being communicated with, too. He may meet the winner of the Johnson-Tate quarrel.

Tom O'Rourke on the Old Boys.

"A fighter with a black eye or a nose bleed these days is written up like a hero of a war," piped Tom O'Rourke the other night, while talking about old and tough fighters.

"I get a laugh at some of the shows now," continued Tom, "when the crowd cheers the boy with a cut lip or a discolored eye. The fighter himself thinks he's a Spartan. Why, years ago, the boys had to go twenty rounds or to a finish. Those were fights. That's where you had to show your true colors. You couldn't stall very well in a twenty-round or a finish fight, and a fellow unmarked in one of those goes was a novelty.

"Take Sharkey fighting Jeffries with three of his ribs broken; Lavigne fighting Walcott with his ear the size of a pumpkin and almost torn off. Take Fitzsimmons with both hands broken fighting Jeff in Frisco. Nowadays a SPRAINED THUMB is cause for a boy to stop."

Speaking of Sockers.

Kid McFarland, who fought during the days of real fighters, the days of Lavigne, Everhardt, Eagan, Gans, Hawkins, N. Y. Jack O'Brien, Elbows McFadden, Tim Kearns, Jack Downey, Charlie McKeever and others, has to giggle when anyone tells him how hard the modern boxers hit.

"Why, I get an awful kick out of it," said the Kid the other night. "Think of the gang we CSED to have! Say, when I think of that left that Dal Hawkins packed I sort of shudder. That a sock he carried. It reminded me of the coffin maker's ad. Try one of ours and you'll NEVER TRY ANOTHER. That guy could hit you and you'd forget income taxes, cold weather and your family. There was a left hand like that. Just one—that was enough. These boys today SLAP compared with Hawkins' punching. Ask any old-timer, HELL KNOW."

Big Firms Plan Baseball League

A new baseball league made up of teams representing business houses in this city and to be known as the Boston Business League, has just been formed.

The following are members: Hawley Folsom Company, Edison Electric Company, Packard Motor Car Company, Walworth Manufacturing Company, William Filene Sons Company, McElwain, Hutchinson & Winch Company, and Texas Oil Company.

The season opens May 1 and closes September 6.

The league is to be made up of eight teams, and as there is still one vacancy Secretary R. S. Miller, Packard Motor Company, would like to hear from some firm team which would be interested in joining the circuit.

TILLO AND SULLIVAN MEET AGAIN AT C. A. C.

Frank Tillo and Johnny Sullivan, those two old-time rivals, are going to have it out again. They will show at the Commonwealth Armory tomorrow night in the feature bout of twelve rounds. This is the farewell boxing meet of the season and one of those regular home-of-action crowds is looked for.

Tillo has been training at Bedford, and is reported to be in great shape.

There will be a ten-round bout between Young Gould of Brockton and Sam Bell of the South End. Both boys are hard punchers and the bout is sure to be a real slugfest.

Two six-round bouts, Young Gardner vs. Young Shine and Barney McAteer vs. Young Oscar, will open the festivities.

BIG ENTRY LIST IN STATE MEET

Schoolboys to Compete at East Armory Saturday; Titles in Each Division

By TOM POWER.

The third annual Massachusetts State indoor track carnival will be held at the East Armory Saturday. More than 250 entries, representing over 25 schools, have been received to date. The High School of Commerce and the Boston English High school lead the rest in the number of entries.

The scoring system in the State meet differs from that of the Boston city meets inasmuch as there is a title in every class. The total of points for the three divisions does not enter into the results.

The High School of Commerce athletes, under the State system of scoring, will be handicapped. It is their strength in the two lower classes which helped them greatly to win the regionals. Boston English High or Latin Classical have a fine chance of annexing the senior title. Commerce should win the intermediate title and make a good showing in the junior division.

But One 1919 Senior Winner in Meet

Only one of the first place winners in the senior division at last year's game is back this year. Gene Hussey of Hyde Park, who was the standing broad jump last year, will compete again in the 300-yard run and the hurdles. After Hussey's performance winning the regimental 300 in record breaking time, Hussey is favored to be a double first place winner. The record in the 300-yard run for the State games is 36 4-5 seconds, held by Hilly Nolan of East Boston. Hussey came within a fifth of a second of this mark at the "Reggies," and will make a try at the last of Nolan's records.

The absence of Pete Walsh of Dorchester from the 1,000-yard event will make the winner hard to pick. Noyes of Marblehead has twice run second to Walsh and should make a good attempt for the title. Kirley of English, Dowling of Newton and Al Burke of Walsh-Kent are other boys in the 1,000 who will make the pace a fast one.

Colson Favorite in Sixty-Yard Dash

Ralph Colson of Last Boston is the favorite in the 60-yard dash. The record for this event is held by Charles Wansker made in 1913 in the time of 6 4-5 seconds.

The meet is scheduled to start at 10 a. m., with the field events and the trial heats. The finals of the running events will start at 2.30 p. m.

ROTARIANS TO BOWL FOR TITLE BY WIRE

The fourth annual international Rotary Club bowling championship will be decided on Monday night, April 19, when representative teams from cities all over the United States and Canada will compete for the handsome championship trophy donated by the Whitipee Rotary Club. The only expense will be for the actual bowling and for telegrams in sending in the scores to headquarters.

All Rotary Clubs wishing to make application for entry or desiring full particulars regarding the tournament will communicate with W. M. Lee, No. 624 South Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

WILSON IS ALL READY FOR REED, SAYS KILLILEA

Marty Killilea, manager of Johnny Wilson, has sent the following for publication. It needs no comment.

"I would like to have you publish a paper in answer to the many challenges of Pal Reed to fight Johnny Wilson. Every day I read of Pal wanting to meet Wilson, but he never seems to come when the time for the match. Pal always has a sore hand.

Wilson is ready right now to meet Reed, and if he don't knock him out Johnny doesn't want any money. The Fenway Club is willing to stage the bout, and if George Carter is sincere and Pal is game, he will agree to meet Wilson. If he is yellow he will again claim a sore hand.

I hope with George Carter's "little liver" Reed made his will either agree to fight or quit challenging Wilson.

NEWTON HIGH TEAM WINS HOCKEY TITLE

Newton High won the Greater Boston school hockey title by defeating Cambridge Latin, 3 to 0, at the Ice Pavilion. Arlington High broke the tie for third place by winning from Brookline High, 4 to 2.

Lewis Relying on Headlock to Win

"Strangler" Ed Lewis will bank on his headlock to win over Stanley Stacsina in the match at the Grand tonight, but the big Pole seems to think that Lewis is going to be fooled and that he will have to uncover about everything he has in the way of wrestling tricks if he hopes to win. Stacsina believes that his powerful neck and jaw are so constructed that even if Lewis gets his deadly hold working it will have little effect on the result.

"But Lewis is not going to get the headlock on me, is the way the big 200-pound giant sums the thing up.

The clash goes to a finish, two out of three falls, under catch-as-catch-can rules, and will be preceded by the usual preliminaries.

Marty Killilea, manager of Johnny Wilson, has sent the following for publication. It needs no comment.

"I would like to have you publish a paper in answer to the many challenges of Pal Reed to fight Johnny Wilson. Every day I read of Pal wanting to meet Wilson, but he never seems to come when the time for the match. Pal always has a sore hand.

Wilson is ready right now to meet Reed, and if he don't knock him out Johnny doesn't want any money. The Fenway Club is willing to stage the bout, and if George Carter is sincere and Pal is game, he will agree to meet Wilson. If he is yellow he will again claim a sore hand.

I hope with George Carter's "little liver" Reed made his will either agree to fight or quit challenging Wilson.

MIKE BRADY IN TOP FORM

Goes Around in 65, Ties Leo Diegal, Then Defeats Detroit Pro

By ROBERT E. HARLOW.

St. Augustine, Fla., March 13.—Mike Brady is playing Patrick's Day golf. He had a round of golf and a course since he left Boston on the tour of the Winter resorts. Mike covered the [illegible] 6255 [illegible] 181 Augustine [illegible] and 72 coming in.

Mike was playing a third round on the way to Miami for professionals all the scenery from the train window and St. Augustine were not to watch. The boys were trying to something better than a perfect round, the 65 lowered the course record by four shots and will give the Winter gazette something to shoot at for a good many seasons to come.

This brilliant round brought Mike from seven shots behind into a tie with Leo Diegal of Detroit who led the field at the end of the first 36 holes. Mike was paired with Diegel for the final 18 holes, as these players led the field at 222 when the third round was completed.

Diegel Made Dizzy by Brady's Play

Mike certainly treated Diegel rough. There had been a good deal of talk among the professionals about the way the youngsters, including Diegel, were coming along and keeping the old-timers out of the money in the Southern tournaments and there was quite a little rivalry between Brady and Diegel and each had been eager to get into a match.

Leo is a game boy but he got very dizzy following Mike in the final round, for Brady started out as if he was all set for another 65 of three-under. He was only 32 to the turn. Diegel held on for his life up to the seventh hole but he failed to play the perfect golf that Brady produced. Mike was on the cushion at each hole in the unusual number of shots and down with two puts.

At the first Diegel had to play a wonderful recovery shot from the rough to get on in two, at the fourth he was short in three, dropped up and was down in one putt, and at the sixth he was way short with his iron over the swamp, but saved a nine third near the cup and got a half. He had to fight all the time to hold Brady from running away.

The cards for the first six holes, Brady, 4, 4, 4, 4, 3, 4. Diegel 4, 4, 5, 4, 4, 5.

Diegel Faltered at Seventh Hole

The seventh is 370 yards. Both drove right down the fairway and Diegel had to get near the pin it was necessary to bang a high ball with plenty of stop, over a trap. Mike did just this and left himself a four-foot putt which he sank. Diegel was on the green in two but took a needless three puts.

Mike picked up another stroke at the eighth, when Diegel used three more putts before he got down. Then when Diegel failed to lay a chip shot dead for a three.

Coming home Diegel blew up altogether and finished the last nine holes in 43 to 38. Brady gained 17 strokes on Diegel in 31 holes. In the first round of the day Diegel and Clarence Mackey played together just ahead of Brady and Herbert Strong. Diegel went out in 32 and Mackie trailed him, shot for shot.

Mike's opening round was nearly perfect. He only missed one shot, this was at the third where he took three putts. He was down to four on this he shot one hole two under par, seven holes one under par and the other nine in par. His record card was: Out 4, 3, 5, 4, 3, 5, 4, 4, 3—33. In 4, 4, 4, 3, 5, 4, 4, 3—32—65. Par for the course is 73.

RED SOX OUT TO WIN 30 GAME

Rookie Hurlers Besiege Ed Barrow and Clamor for Chance Against Pirates

[illegible] were going [illegible] I all I can say is [illegible] to [illegible] a [illegible] triumph by the Red Sox over Pittsburgh in the world's series of baseball. All the celebration was the work of Fortune, Holborrow and Flaherty, rookie flingers.

Ed Barrow had said some unkind things about his pitchers earlier in the week, and so they were rather elated when they showed their boss he was in error in regard to their pitching class.

The Pirates have also ambitious about winning today's game They think they have a chance to triumph, now that Barrow has removed his St. Patrick's Day winner, Patsy Flaherty and Paddy Livingston. It was a perfect setup for this battery to make the Red Sox win sure in the latter part of the contest

Sox Pitchers Wild, But Effective

The Red Sox flingers were wild, but when they got the ball over the plate the opposition was not able to do much effective batting Seven hits was the Pittsburgh total, which equalled the number of safe blows made by the Sox.

Scott and Menosky stazed some of that hero stuff as the Pirates went down in defeat.

Two safe hits were Scott's offering while Menosky punched out one hit and made a spectacular catch in left centre. He also lost a home run by inches when the wind carried one of Pitt clouts, right down Duffy's field fence, foul Hiller worked at second base in the absence of Mike McNally, who is sidelined with a lame arm. He fielded his position perfectly, at the bat the former Virginia League player hit in tough luck. Two of his drives were pulled down by Carey in deep centre, while another was caught by Bigby after a dash to the left field foul line. Hiller is batting the ball hard and sooner or later will get the breaks which will cause his smashes to fall safely.

McInnis Life of Red Sox Infield

McInnis has been the life of the Red Sox infield today. He has been of great assistance to the pitchers, as he coached them carefully while they were batting.

If Barrow is wise, he'll continue to use his young pitchers. Opportunity to face first-class teams is the only thing which will give newcomers confidence. This will enable the Red Sox leader to get a line on his youngsters.

It is mighty difficult to pass judgment on a pitcher when he only receives an opportunity to perform in batting practice. The real stuff of which a hurler is made is shown when he is out there in the box against a first-class team with men on bases.

The series with Pittsburgh ends today. Tomorrow the squad will engage in a light workout, after which they will pack their belongings and hit the trail for Texas, where the long barnstorming tour will commence.

The weather; they are using watering carts down here.

Waves of the Atlantic

THE size of the waves of the Atlantic Ocean has been carefully ascertained. In height they average thirty feet, but in rough weather attain forty to forty-eight feet. During storms they are frequently from 500 to 600 feet long and endure 10 to 11 seconds. The longest wave measured did not spend itself for 23 seconds.

THE YOUNG DIANA

An Experiment of the Future

Story of Extraordinary Mystery, in Which the Heroine Holds Key to Youth and Beauty

By MARIE CORELLI

What Has Gone Before

Mr. May, daughter of well-to-do commonplace parents, had had her love affair when the story opens with an officer with "expectations." After waiting seven years, the "expectations" were realized and the loved one promptly threw her over for a fairer and younger partner. Diana had age (her life in wondering. She had read books on psychology, natural and physical laws and on evolution and the selection of the species, but she was unable to determine why she came in or how she was to get out. The May family retires to Rose Lea, an estate on the coast of Devon, where Diana delights to ramble through the gardens. She receives a letter from Sophy Lansing, including a strange advertisement. She overhears her parents discussing her age and declaring that she is in the way. She goes bathing and fails to appear for breakfast.

"Stout! You talk about stoutness! You! Why, I'm a paper-knife compared to you!—a positive paper-knife! I believe you actually grudge my wearing white flannels!"

His wife laughed.

"Indeed, no!" she declared. "It amuses me! I rather like it!"

"I should think you did!" he retorted. "Or, if you don't, you ought to!"

She surveyed him genitively with round, lack-lustre eyes.

"What a long time it is!" she said—"what a long, long time since you were thin!—really quite thin, James! Do you remember? When you proposed to me in father's dining room and the parlor-maid came in and lit the gas, just as you were going to——"

"You seem very reminiscent this morning," interrupted her husband, sharply. "Do white flannels move you to sentiment?"

"Oh, no!—not at all—not now!" she replied, with a small giggle. "Only one cannot but think of the change between then and now—it's almost humorous——"

"I should think it is!" he agreed. "It's more than humorous! It's comic! What d'ye expect? When I think of what you were! a nice little pink and white thing with a small waist—and see you now!—here he snorted half contemptuously. "But there!—we can't all remain young, and you're quite comfortable looking—a sort of pillow of ease—you might be worse——"

Here their mutual personal compliments were interrupted by the hurried entrance of Grace Laurie, looking pale and scared.

"Oh 'm, I'm afraid some accident has happened to Miss Diana!" she said, breathlessly. "We've been all the way down to the cove, and—and——"

Here she suddenly burst out crying. Mr. May bounced up from his chair

"Deuce take the woman!—don't stand there gibbering! What's the matter? Speak out!"

Mrs. May stared feebly, her mouth opening slowly, like that of a fish on dry land.

"What—what is it, Grace?" she stammered. "You frighten me!"

Found Clothes

"Tes'm, I know, but I can't help it!" Grace answered, gaspingly. "But—but I've been down to the cove—and all round in every place, and there's Miss Diana's clothes all but together on the rocks, with her shoes and hat and bathing towel, but—but—there's no Miss Diana!" Here her emotions got the better of her, and she gave a small scream.

"Oh, eh! I'm sure she's drowned! —oh, Miss Diana, poor thing! I'm sure she's drowned!—she's been carried off her feet by the waves!

"—there was a high tide this morning, and I know she's drowned! She's drowned, she's drowned!"

Her voice rose to a high shrill pitch, and she wrung her hands.

Mrs. May struggled weakly out of her chair, and then dropped heavily into it again

"Drowned! Diana! Don't be foolish, Grace! It is not possible!"

Mr. May seized his cap and threw it on his head.

"Here, I'll soon put a stop to all this nonsense!" he said. "Let me get down to the cove—what's the good of a parcel of silly fools of women shrieking and crying before they know what's happened!" He marched up to Grace Laurie and grasped her by the shoulder. "Now, be calm! Can you be calm?"

Grace caught her breath, and wriggled herself away from the nip of his fingers.

"Yes, sir."

"Well, then, repeat what you said just now—you went down to the cove and saw——"

"Miss Diana's clothes—all put by on the rocks, just as she always puts them out of the way when she's going to bathe," said Grace. "And her bathing towel—that hasn't been used. And her shoes and stockings. But Miss Diana's gone!"

Oh dear, oh dear!" moaned Mrs. May. "What dreadful, dreadful things are you saying! What are we to do. Oh, I feel so ill My sweet Diana!—my only, only precious child! And—and James, James!"

And with her face suddenly working up into all sorts of lines and creases as though it were an india-rubber mask pulled from behind, she began to weep slowly and tricklingly, like a tap with a stopper in its middle.

Soon Clear it Up

"Be quiet!" shouted Mr. May fiercely. "You unnerve me with all this snivelling!—and I'm not unnerved! I'm going myself to the cove—I'll soon clear up this business! I don't believe anything has happened to Diana—she's a fine swimmer, and she's probably enjoying a swim,—she can swim like a fish—she can swim like one!—she couldn't drown!"

And with a half-suppressed oath he tottered out, all fuss and feathers, like an angry fighting-cock, his whole mentality arrayed against fate and circumstances, resolved to show that he was stronger than either

By this time the ill news had spread, and the servants, the gardeners, and a few of the villagers went running down to the cove. It was true there had been a high tide that morning,—there was yet the glistening trail of the lofiest mats on the rocks where the freshly tossed seaweed clung. Safe out of all possible reach of the waves, and neatly folded on a ledge of rock, were Diana's simple garments, as Grace had said,—with her hat, stockings and shoes and the unused bathing towel. A veteran sailor had joined the group of onlookers, and now, drawing his pips from his mouth, he asked

"What time did the leddy coom down 'ere?"

Mr. May had by now lost a little of his self-assertiveness and was feeling distinctly uncomfortable. He was not a man of emotion, though he could often feign emotion successfully enough to deceive the very elect. But just now he was as he would himself have said, "very much upset." He knew that he ought to appear to his own servants and to the villagers as a fond father distracted with anxiety and suspense, and he was aware that his dumpy figure in tight white flannels did not "dress" the part He replied curtly:

"She was here a little before six, I'm told—"

"Ah, poor thing, then she's been carried out of her depth," said the old "salt" "There's a main deal o' suction with the sea in this 'ere cove when full tide comes in——"

"She's an excellent swimmer" said Mr. May, gazing at the sea in a vaguely disappointed way as though he thought that a wave that swept slowly in ought to bring Diana rising triumphantly on top of it.

"Ay, ay — that may be!— but swimmin' winnot allers save a woman what's light weight an' ain't got the muscles of a man. There's a force o' water 'ere sometimes as 'ud sweep a cart an' 'oss off like a bit o' straw! Ay, ay!—she's gone for sure! an' mebbe her poor body'll never come nigh—leastways not 'ere—it might, lower down t'fe coast—"

Here Grace Laurie, who was with the other servants watching, began to cry bitterly.

"Oh, Miss Diana!" she sobbed. "She was so good and kind! Oh, dear Miss Diana!"

The old sailor patted her gently on the shoulder

"Now don't ye fret, don't ye fret, my girlie!" he said. "We're all swept off our feet sooner or later, when the big tide comms in!—some first an' others last—but 'tis all the same! Now you just pull yerself together an' take the poor laddy's clothes back 'ome—an' I an' my mates will watch all along shore, an' if we hears aorthin' or finds anythin'——"

Mr. May coughed noisily.

"I am the father of the unfortunate lady," he said gritly. "I cannot yet believe or realize this —this awful business; but anything you can do will be suitably rewarded—of course——"

"Thanky, sir, thanky! I makes no doubt on't—but I'll not worrit ye with the how an' the whens in yer sorrer, for sorrer ye must 'ave, for all ye looks so dry. What we 'eare we'll let ye know an' what we finds too——"

ANGELA

ANGEL-LIKE is the translation of Angela, from the Greek angelos, meaning messenger, which the Romans interpreted as "heavenly messenger" and hence "angel." Angelos first became proper in the Byzantine Empire. It is believed to have begun as an epithet, since it comes to light in Konstantinos Angelos, a young man of noble family, whose beauty caused him to be the choice of the Princess Theodora Komena in 1100. Because of the beauty of the family, Angelos became its

The misdirected crusade of the Venetians brought it to Greece, and a monastic saint who preached at Palermo and was afterward murdered by a wicked count whose evil deeds he had rebuked, was one of the first to bear the name. The Carmelites claimed St. Angelo as a saint of their order and the name, in both its masculine and feminine forms, caught the fancy of Italy

It became popular in the other nations, due perhaps to its inseparable associations with beauty, and also to the fashion of complimenting women as angels. The derivative Angelica is noted in romance as the faithless lady for whose sake Orlando lost his heart and senses. But she was a gracious invention of Bolardo and Ariosto, for Spanish ballads and earlier Italian poets make him the faithful husband of Alda. However, Angelica obtained that character for beauty which has made the name popular through the centuries. It has been a particular favorite with authors through all ages of literature, particularly in mid-Victorian fiction, where its heritage of fragile, virtuous beauty fitted it exceptionally for the name of its heroines. Angela, from time immemorial, has been spelled to the fluffy, youthful, unsophisticated types with curly hair and wide, innocent blue eyes

The French call her Angelique and Angeline. England has evolved the derivative Angelot. Angiola, Angioletta and Angiolina are the Italian forms; the Teutonic versions are Engel and Engelchen. Aniela is Polish, and Anjela and Anjelina have been evolved in Bohemian.

It is fitting that the pure beauty of Angela should have the pearl as her talismanic jewel. It insures her charm and purity and popularity. Should she dream of pearls she will find new faithful friends. Monday is her lucky day, when she wears a pearl, and 7 her lucky number.

Humoresque

Screen Version Novelized by Jane McLean

Fannie Hurst's Story in a Tense Film Drama Featuring Alma Rubens

Watch for It in Motion Pictures

"Humoresque" is a Cosmopolitan production. Scenario by Frances Marion, direction of Frank Borzage. Presented by Famous Players-Lasky Corporation as a Paramount-Artcraft picture.

HANCOCK was for making the most of his opportunities; he declared to Leon that the time was ripe to return to America; the young man hesitated. He was finding life in the Eternal City extremely interesting. Hancock argued; Leon remained obdurate. The manager saw the prospect of a full season in New York slipping away; in his own room he cursed the artistic temperament—that bete noire of so many of his kind.

Then he cudgelled his brains for some stratagem to induce Leon to sail for the land of gold.

The result of a long and arduous mental effort was embodied in a cryptic cablegram to Mrs. Kantor hinting that her presence would be beneficial to her son.

Hancock took the precaution to add that Leon was perfectly well and left the rest to the imagination. Mama Kantor immediately pictured Gina Berg as filling the picture she had so long reserved to herself.

She showed the cablegram to Abrahm: "You better go," he said, "it makes no money to be there too long, and Kings and Queens'—he shrugged his shoulders expressively

"They advertise good," said his wife, and Abrahm nodded

"Hancock is level headed," she added a little irrelevantly, and made her preparations to take the next boat to Italy.

When we came over here," she began to reminisce at dinner. Izzy cut her short: "Come along Mama, we heard that before."

But the difference in the picture was a day before her as Abrahm accompanied her to her stateroom on the liner that was to touch Gibraltar on the way to Napoli

"It's grand," she said, wholeheartedly, looking around at the comfortable lounge and the modern conveniences

"You could come back in a month," Abrahm suggested.

"By the next boat, maybe," said Izzy

Mrs. Kantor made no promises. Somehow she foresaw complications, though she did not think of them. She leaned over the rail, waving a tear-stained handkerchief at the receding figure on the pier, not sure whether her tears were tears of sorrow over her departure or of joy at the prospect of seeing her boy again.

Hancock said nothing about the cable to Leon, and even when he received the announcement that Mrs. Kantor was sailing he maintained silence, though secretly wondering what Leon found in Rome to attract him.

Once in a while the young man thought of Gina and his pleasant stay in the Paris of Austria. Her letter of consratulation started a correspondance between them, and then she announced she was coming to Rome for a week.

She came alone, after the manner of American girls, and rather enjoyed freedom where it meant so much.

"I suppose I'm shocking every woman in sight," she said when Leon met her at the train

He shook her hand warmly, cognisant of the admiring glances of uniformed men in shining boots.

She was going to a pension chiefly because she hated hotels. Leon volunteered to escort her, and, after she had been installed, returned to his rooms wishing it were evening. He had arranged to meet her and drive over the well-known Corso Umberto Primo to the Piazza d'Aracoeli. After that he had not planned, but he had vague ideas of an hour on the Pincio.

Gina's knowledge of Rome was the knowledge of Baedeker. Leon had the advantage of actual contact; moreover he was saturated with the spirit of poetry that rises like incense from the ruins of the great days of Empire

"It was very nice of you to write," he said as they rode bumpingly along, the girl's beauty making a picture the man was quick to appreciate.

"Nice of you to give me the occasion," she laughed, "for much like New York is it?" her hand swept in an arc toward the wonderful vineyard converted by Valadier from the once famous gardens of Lucullus and Messalina.

"Not much like New York," echoed Leon, "yet something like it too; there's poetry in the view there, too."

The Two Voices

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

"VERY well," he smiled. "But I shall come here for you often, Miss Ruth, if"—with a glance at his hostess—"Miss Rodney will let me."

Later, as Dayton and Ruth were walking home, the man said suddenly:

"I did not know that you and Miss Rodney were such intimate friends. I never had more than a few minutes' chat with her until this evening. What a charming girl she is!"

"She is indeed!" Laura's friend agreed promptly

"Her mind is so good and she has such a quick sense of humor," Dayton went on. "She reminds me of her brother at his best. Hugh was a peach of a chap—the best company in the world. And now they say he is a wreck

"I did not like to ask his sister too much about him. But—is he very badly injured?"

"His father tells me that the chief injury had been to the optic nerves." Ruth said in a strained voice, "so he cannot see anything."

"Oh, poor chap! I am so sorry!" Dayton exclaimed. "I am glad I did not question his sister, for the subject must be very painful to her. How hard it must be for his sister and father, who must see him in his blindness!"

"Yes, very hard!"

"I do not suppose there is anything I could do?" Dayton suggested, "I mean anything like going there to read to him, or talk to him, is there?"

"I fancy there is nothing that you could do just yet," Ruth said. "He has an attendant with him most of the time

"An intelligent person who can read to him?"

Ruth controlled a nervous inclination to laugh or cry, she was not sure which.

"The Rodneys seem to thing so," she answered. "Of course I have asked no questions."

"Of course not. Hugh is more your sister's friend than Yours, isn't he?"

"Yes; he and Doris are good friends."

"I know that they used to be. In fact, they were together so often that I have heard it suggested that they were engaged But since Rodney's absence I have seen her with that chap Norton even more than she has been with any other man. Norton is a decent sort, too. And it is plain that he is very much smitten with Miss Doris. She is certainly a pretty girl—and lots of fun."

"Naturally I think she is," Ruth rejoined, trying to make her tone sound normal.

"You will allow me to call again at Mr. Rodney's for you—won't you?" he asked before he left her.

"Yes," she consented, "you may come there again for me if you wish"

The house was very quiet when she let herself in with her latchkey.

Stopping at her mother's room, she bent over the bed and kissed the sleeper lightly.

"Oh, Ruth, I am glad you are in!" Mrs. Courtney roused herself to murmur. "Doris went to bed early, and I did the same. Go right to bed, dear"

When she had turned out the light in her own room and had lain down i the darkness, Ruth spoke softly.

"I could see very far ahead—but farther than usual tonight. Mother is content with Doris, and would be happy if Doris married Ralph Norton. Will Dayton has just discovered that Laura is charming, and will keep on learning more about her. Then will spin of the fact that he has fancied himself in love with me. And I—just now I have Hugh—at least he has me for his friend and Doris's friend. But the time will come when he learns who I am, and then I will never see him or have his friendship again He always hated a liar, and that is what I have to be for his sake."

Household Suggestions

To improve the flavor of an apple pie sprinkle the fruit with lemon juice after it is filled into the crust, and cover with tiny pieces of butter, then add sugar, and nutmeg or cinnamon.

Milk will not burn if, before heating, a little cold water is put into the saucepan and brought to the boil Then the milk can be heated in the usual way.

Use common oilcloth for the pantry shelves and around the sink. It stays in place, wears longer, and is impervious to damp, and can be cleaned very easily.

To remove mud stains from a cashmere dress, dissolve some carbonate of soda in water, and then carefully sponge the stains with the solution

A very little glycerine smeared around the glass stoppers of bottles will keep them for a long time from sticking

Embroidery of every kind that has been washed or cleaned with petrol should be ironed on the wrong side to throw the embroidery into relief. Underneath there should be a soft pad of several thicknesses of flannel, so that the embroidery can sink into it without being flattened

* * *

Japanned ware should not be washed with very hot water, as it will cause the varnish to crack.

Try Making Your Own Cough Remedy

This cost little about 45 cents, but gives more than a dollar's worth of results. Simply stir together:

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough syrup, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

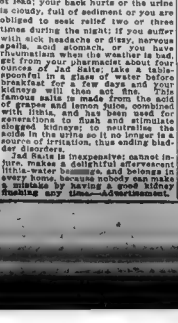
Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.—Advertisement.



WHEN YOUR KIDNEYS FEEL LIKE LUMPS OF LEAD

100 DEAD

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with poisons which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health

When your kidneys feel like bags of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to rest relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or suffer from rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.—Advertisement.

ARGENTINE CREDIT IN U. S. NEAR EXHAUSTION

The shipment of gold from this country to Argentina is expected to end by May 15, if not before, because on that date the $50,000,000 6 per cent. treasury notes of the Argentine government mature and will end the credit due to a favorable trade balance. She has received about $50,000,000 in gold from the United States and $25,000,000 of the maturing notes are held in this country and the balance in England.

British holdings may be converted in dollar certificates and the privilege is being availed of, as it provides profit for English investors under current rates of exchange.

IT'S WHITE AND 95c

NEW SAFETY PAPER tells you there is luck in SAFETY, money in PAPER, and wonderful possibilities in its NEW chemical discovery because IT'S WHITE. That's where it differs from all other safety papers. It is also WHITE in other respects. It is a "white man's" proposition, set up on different lines than any other.

Over 600 investors are co-operating to make similar earnings on their combined capital to those which Big Business makes on its original investment. Each of them with $100 apiece are equal to one capitalist with $100,000.

They have assured orders which makes the business capable of earning 30% to 60% the first year of business. Those profits are going to be divided among 1,000 men instead of all going to one man. The earnings will multiply after the first year.

If 1,000 men, as above, had backed Henry Ford, George Eastman or King C. Gillette when either of these men started business, a $100 investment would, today, be worth five to six figures for each one of those 1,000 men. GET THAT? WHITE.

NEW SAFETY PAPER has equal possibilities. If you have $100 that is not earning more than 30%, here is a chance to employ it in making money for yourself instead of the other fellow.

The founder of this enterprise has the endorsements of HUNDREDS OF BANKS.

We began to tell you about it when the price was 80c. You have been reading of it ever since and watching the price go to 90c and 95c. It has advanced upon its merits and on account of the money paid into the treasury. It would go faster if you would make up your mind to investigate it now. Why not be an individual of decision and join us now? Let the other fellow pay $1 and more. Whether you believe it or not, you will only have a chance to buy below $1 for a few days.

HIGH RECORDS IN BOSTON

Trading Broad and Active on the Exchange; Curb Market Strong

Prices moved upward on the Boston exchange at the opening and the trend continued in the same direction during the morning. Oils were prominent. Eastbourt and Ventura selling at their highest for the year. Ventura directors have declared an initial quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share. Another initial dividend declaration was by the Ohio Body Corporation, which announced it is 62½ cents a share on common. Mexican Petroleum sold at a new highest record price, and United Fruit sold at its highest for 1920 as yet. The market had been more trading and activity. But coppers lagged.

Losses in value advance from one to four points during the forenoon were Calumet & Arizona, United States Agricultural Chemical, Wickwire, International Products, Eastern Steamship and Amoskeag. United Fruit made the largest gain.

Fractionally higher stocks were American Telephone, Boston Elevated, United Shoe, Simms Magneto, Eastern Manufacturing, Swift & Co., Swift International, Highland, Gray & Davis and Walworth.

CURB MARKET OPENED FIRM.

The Curb market had a firm opening and was strong during the morning, reviewing the list as a whole. Manhattan Gas was the feature of the day's sales of this issue totalling more than 30,000 shares during the first hour. It opened at 80 cents and sold as high as 90 cents before 11 o'clock. Other strong stocks at the start were Crystal, Southwest Miami full paid, Texarna and Universal Silver. Simms Petroleum, White Oil and Gilliland were unchanged.

Gains at the end of an hour included Imperial 2 cents at 80 cents, Manhattan 6 cents at 77 cents and Southwest Miami part paid ¼ at 5. Mutual Trust had declined 5 cents to 98 cents.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

At the end of last year the balance on hand of the Mayflower-Old Colony Cooper Co. was $14,822, expenditures for 1920 having totalled $118,808. Up to yesterday $128,000 had been received on assessment proceeds.

Figuring the last sale of Commonwealth Trust stock at 205, the offering of the new shares at $150 to shareholders for every two held makes the rights worth about $10.

Wm. A. Read & Co. announce for the syndicate managers that the new issue of Texas Co. 5-year 7 per cent. notes has been oversubscribed and that books have been closed.

For 1919 the La Rosa Mines, Ltd., reports gross value of ore produced at $2,000,000, cost of mining, depreciation, etc., $825,920; net $31,780; profit and loss surplus, $314,426.

ELECTROLYTIC COPPER SOLD AT 18 CENTS

Sales of electrolytic copper have been made this week at 18 cents a pound, f. o. b. for March shipment, although the prevailing quotation is for 18½ cents for deliveries to the end of the second quarter. The market is still very dull, but it is said that inquiries are beginning to increase.

Production decreased a little last month, the output of the 12 leading companies totalling 47,814,749 pounds, 1,000,000 pounds less than the previous month. The output by the Calumet & Hecla group for February was 2,655,453 pounds, the smallest aggregate since July last.

Mill Cotton Receipts

It is reported that receipts of cotton by New England mills during February were the smallest for any month during three years past, and less cotton was received in New Bedford, Fall River, Lowell, Lawrence and Manchester than came to New Bedford alone in January this year. February receipts at the five cities were more than 50,000 bales less than for the corresponding 1919 month.

Record High Bank Clearings

This year has been remarkable for record high bank clearings. The New York total for January 3 was the largest ever known, amounting to $1,588,807,181. Other more than a billion-dollar days and their clearings were $1,348,988,054 on January 9, $1,328,647,813 on February 4 and $1,219,742,000 on March 16.

Stock Dividends

The stock dividend declarations expected in Wall street have resulted but such distributions are untenable have begun.

Crucible directors have declared a stock dividend of 50 per cent. on common.

The Stanley Works of New Britain, Ct., will declare a 100 per cent. dividend. It will be equivalent to $2,500,000. The proceeds of issues of $1,500,000 in common stock and $5,000,000 in preferred stock will be used to buy the Stanley Rule & Level Company of New Britain.

It is again rumored that Baldwin Locomotive Works directors will declare a 66⅔ per cent. stock dividend at their March 25 meeting.

A 100 per cent. stock dividend on American Brake Shoe & Foundry preferred is being discussed on Wall street as a possibility.

STEELS AMONG THE LEADERS

Morning Gains Range from Fractions to About Twenty-three Points

By W. H. ROSS.
Financial Editor

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, prices being near the morning highest. There was a slight reaction at the end of the first hour because of profit-taking, but it was followed by a rally that took prices to still higher levels.

The market was active as well as strong, first hour transactions totalling nearly half a million shares. Gains for the forenoon ranged from fractions to more than five points. Stutz soared the highest. Call money renewed at 7 per cent.

Among issues to make the largest gains were Endicott Johnson, Hide & Leather common and preferred, International Corporation, American Locomotive, Car & Foundry, Railway Steel Spring, American Woolen, Bethlehem B, Republic Street, Lackawanna, Chandler, General Motors, Studebaker, Texas Co., Reading, General Electric and U. S. Rubber. They were up from three to nine points at their highest. U. S. Steel advanced 2½ to 102¾.

INDUSTRIALS LED UPTURN.

Securities were to more demand at the opening this morning than at the start on any previous day this week, owing by quicker buying in greater consequence and orders coming from all sections. The drop in the call rate on Wednesday and the better management and also inspired confidence on the part of the public. Earliest gains ranged from fractions to more than 17 points. The spectacular rise was by Stutz Motor. It opened at the record highest price of 187. Gains were most noticeable in motor, steel and equipment departments. Oils were conspicuous too, Texas Co. making the best showing.

Baldwin, American Locomotive, Car & Foundry and Vanadium sold at their highest for this year to date. Strength of equipments is due to present and prospective buying of railway stock and supplies by railroads. The market continued to advance and still higher prices were reached during the first hour. Trading was broad and active. It was mainly professional, however. Covering of shorts has been extensive. Investment has altered materially within a few days. That it is more bullish is due to signs that money rates will be lowered, to the advance in foreign exchange, to the return of rails to private ownership and to confidence that post-war readjustments will be accomplished with less disturbance to values and to public order than was feared.

One of the things particularly pleasing to Wall street is the constructive spirit being manifested by Congress. Many bankers and captains of industry believe that for the first time in years business is going to get in Washington the consideration it deserves.

CALL MONEY IS NOW EASY TO OBTAIN BY BROADAN WALL.

Registered, U. S. Patent Office.

New York, March 18.—Wall Street had another day of wild excitement in the stock market yesterday. In the morning there was a sharp advance in many issues followed by a serious break. Dullness prevailed for a brief time and then there was a wild upheaval under the leadership of Baldwin, Stutz Motors, American Locomotive, American Can and U. S. Steel.

American Woolen made, it is understood, about 150 per cent. on its stock in 1919 before paying taxes. This gives ample scope for the imagination of large stock dividends. A cash dividend of 10 per cent. has been in contemplation, but now that stock dividends are tax free it is probable that the plans will be changed and a stock dividend be issued instead.

The American Tobacco, also, has a stock dividend of at least 75 per cent. under contemplation. United Fruit, Westinghouse, Stutz Motor, American Locomotive, Central Leather, Standard Milling and Cuban American Sugar are also in a position to declare large stock dividends.

Sale of Army Materials

During February the War Department obtained $498,812,000 by the sale of surplus materials bought during the war for that branch of the service. Sales for the first week in March approximated $2,100,000.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, March 18.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 9 to 19 points on favorable Liverpool cables and strength in securities. Another factor was rain in the Eastern belt. Heavy commission houses made new highs for the movement before many realizing sales caused a reaction. The undertone remained steady, however, and at the end of the first hour prices showed net gains of 20 to 24 points. Opening prices were: March, 40.34; May, 37.80; July, 34.95; October, 31.95; December, 31.12.

FRADKIN PREDICTS FAILURE OF TRUSTEES

Frederick Fradkin, deposed concert-master of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, declared to an audience in the Clarendon Street Baptist Church that it would be impossible for the trustees of the orchestra to fill the vacancies made by the striking players. He said the demonstration at the Sanders Theatre, Cambridge, the first skirmish in the war between the trustees and union musicians, was planned for Montezuma.

Measures That Would Cure Most of the Troubles and Tendencies Which Distress and Alarm Us Today

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.
(4) To elect Federal Judges, including Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.
(5) To apply the Initiative, the Referendum and the Recall to national matters.

Legislature Should Pass Spencer Maternity Bill Today

It is to be hoped that the Massachusetts Legislature will show today that it has at heart the welfare of the motherhood of the Commonwealth by passing the bill of Miss Edna Lawrence Spencer, providing maternity benefits for expectant mothers unable to provide proper care for themselves.

Two bills are before the Legislature today of similar title and apparently similar nature, but widely differing in their application. The other bill is that of Representative Benjamin Loring Young.

The Boston American believes Miss Spencer's bill to be the superior, and urges upon the members of the Legislature to pass the Spencer bill and to reject that of Representative Young. While both provide State aid for needy prospective mothers, both immediately before and after the period of confinement, there are two main points of difference.

The Spencer bill provides a cash benefit for mothers, attached to which there shall be no stigma of charity, but which will allow the mother a certain freedom of choice, particularly in the selection of a physician; whereas the Young bill provides no such benefit, but only medical and nursing care.

Further, the Spencer bill provides that in case of illegitimacy, efforts shall be made to locate the father, who shall then be required to reimburse the State for aid rendered. This provision will go far to minimise illegitimacy.

Miss Spencer has spent years of study on this problem, and is eminently qualified to frame the kind of legislation which the State needs. While the American desires in no wise to detract from the sincerity of Representative Young's purpose in the bill which he has submitted, it believes that the latter measure is inferior to Miss Spencer's in the important points named.

Mrs. Endicott's Welcome Gift to Ex-Service Men

Mrs. Henry B. Endicott has done a splendid thing in providing the money to secure for the former war service men of Dedham a handsomely appointed clubhouse.

This gift is in the nature of a memorial to her recently deceased husband and, because it is an appreciation of deeds of the patriotic youth of the town, it is most appropriate, being consistent with the attitude of Mr. Endicott toward the boys who went to war.

He did a great deal for them and their dependents as well as for the community during the war period, and it was his sacrifice of time and physical energy in war activities that hastened his death. Had he lived, undoubtedly he would have given the heroes of his home town recognition similar to that shown them by Mrs. Endicott.

This is a form of recognition the boys are anxious to receive. In American Legion circles the generosity of Mrs. Endicott has won unstinted praise and her good judgment general commendation. It is the hope of every Legion post in the State to have a home of its own some day. Many have made their plans and several have begun the campaign for the raising of the necessary funds.

Such movements should be encouraged. They are for the benefit of citizenship. They promote practical Americanism. They are designed to make for better community spirit, to be community centres for social, health and educational affairs and for the intelligent consideration of all matters affecting local interests.

The example of this good woman should be emulated by other people of means who are sincere well-wishers of those who served in the world's hour of greatest need.

Great Fund Should Be Raised for Clergymen

Rev. Robert E. Speer addressed the clergymen assembled at the Park Street Church the other day in behalf of the Interchurch world movement. Mr. Speer, referring apparently to the source of financial support for our churches, said:

There is no body of men in America as numerous as the Christian ministers that is so unpurchasable, so fearless and so influential as they are. It would be easy to name certain sinister interests in this nation that would like to, but which cannot, buy the Christian ministers.

Great commercial and business leaders are saying that only religion can meet the needs of the nation. But they say this because they fear that those who have charge of the great vaults will break through and steal our wealth and our bonds. We know that religion must have a different motivation than this unchristian selfishness.

Nothing could be more true or better said. It was only recently that a very distinguished gentleman in our State, holding one of our highest public offices, urged better pay for our clergymen lest their discontent should lead them to more searching inquiries into the justification for present social and economic conditions.

The campaign for a great fund with which to pay our underpaid clergymen better wages ought to be general, and all ought to contribute. The American has several times suggested that such a campaign would prove a great success and would preserve the independence of the clergy, a thing very much needed for our democracy. We believe that it would be found that those who do not attend church would be willing to do their share towards maintaining the church, because it would be difficult to find among those who do not attend church regularly many who are indifferent to its welfare and who do not respect its usefulness.

Science Proves the Female Best of Species

SCIENCE has proved that Rudyard Kipling was right when he declared, in a poem, that "the female of the species is more deadly than the male." It has gone a step further and decided that the female is not only more deadly, but superior, at least insofar as the animal and insect worlds are concerned.

French scientists investigating the comparative abilities of Mr. and Mrs. Bug, Beast, Bird and Man have decided reluctantly, but conscientiously, that almost invariably in insect, reptile and animal life the female is bigger, stronger, more intelligent, and lives longer than the male of the species.

Some of them even go so far as to make a practice of killing and eating their unfortunate husbands directly the mating season is over.

Dr. W. H. Ballou has written for the Boston Sunday Advertiser a special article on this scientific admission, given out by the French Academy of Sciences. It will appear in Sunday's Magazine Section.

Can a woman lose 100 pounds, retain her health and remain thin? She can, declares Amelia Summerville, actress, once a memorable mountain of flesh, who reduced her weight 110 pounds in eight months—and kept it at that figure.

In a special interview with the Boston Sunday Advertiser, Miss Summerville tells her readers how she lost her superfluous flesh quickly and easily, and how she has prevented its return. Watch for her story on Sunday in the Magazine Section.

Raymond Belmont, son of August Belmont, financier and sportsman, has just been confronted with the harvest of a crop of wild oats, sowed eight years ago.

Raymond, a veteran of the war and happily married to a charming woman, is being sued for $15,000, a sum which he is said to have lost playing roulette at Newport. Edward W. Rankin, the plaintiff, is said to hold Mr. Belmont's "I. O. U." for that amount.

Although the latter admits the signature, he declares that he has no recollection of having signed it. And he denies ever having met Mr. Rankin.

But why does Mr. Rankin bring such a suit in a State where the laws provide that gambling debts cannot be collected by law? Read about it in Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

OPTIMISM AND COMMON SENSE

It is great to be an optimist, if you have some good hard, practical common sense back of it.

But simple optimism without constructive work is day dreaming.

The idea that you will come out all right in the end is a hopeful view, but if it causes you to relax effort and choose the cushioned chair while you have such beautiful faith in the ultimate good, you are due for a rude awakening.

Unless you get in line to make the most of your life and your talents all the optimism in the world won't save you from the results of your ignorance and general shiftlessness.

What are you actually doing to merit the optimistic view you express?

You may have an idea that you can cross the stream of success on a smile, but unless you do something to get over there you can sit on the bank and smile all day, but it won't land you anywhere.

The more cheerful you are, as you study and work, the greater your chance of success, but mere optimism won't do anything for you.

By K. C. B.

DEAR K. C. B.—I like my freedom, I like my liquor and I like my women wild. They took away my liquor and I made root beer, and there was no kick in it. Then I made more and put two raisins in each bottle. I opened one bottle at the table and everybody got a bath but father. Then he opened one and he got his, and then he said the dara stuff was dangerous. Then a bottle on the windowsill blew up, but there was nobody near it, and it broke the window. Then father said we'd have to empty them, and I took them into the cellar and put them in water like I read the police do in opening bombs. They made a noise and blew out the raisins, and the dog ran behind the furnace.

Then I remember reading about the power of an atom, and I'll tell the world and half of Texas that a raisin is no slouch. And I want to know, since they've taken away liquor will women grow loans, and if they do and are fed on raisins, will they become wild again, and what's the answer. I thank you.

ANTHONY BURGER.
No. 496 Decatur street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

MY DEAR Tony.
IN THE first place.
YOU OUGHT to know.
THAT THIS isn't a column.
FOR BOOT-LEGGERS.
OR WILD women.
AND IT served you right.
WHEN THE bottle blew up.
AND IF your father.
HAD BEEN bringing you up.
THE WAY he should.
HE WOULD never have tried.
THE SECOND bottle.
AND THE reason I'm writing.
IS BECAUSE in your letter.
YOU SPEAK of raisins.
AND IT will make you mad.
WHEN I write and tell you.
THAT I'VE just been.
WHERE THE raisins grow.
AROUND THE town of Fresno.
IN CALIFORNIA.
AND I promised the mayor.
THAT I'D write in my column.
ABOUT THIS town.
AND TELL the people.
ABOUT THE millions of tons.
OR MILLIONS of pounds.
OR MILLIONS of raisins.
THAT THEY send to the market.
ON EVERY year.
AND HE made me a present.
OF A box of raisins.
AND MY three initials.
WERE SET in prunes.
AND I'VE eaten the "K."
AND A lot of raisins.
AND I'VE got to pay for them.
BY WRITING something.
AND I'VE tried to do it.
BUT IT looked like an ad.
AND THEN at the postoffice.
I GOT your letter.
AND IT gives me a chance.
TO WRITE about raisins.
AND TO mention Fresno.
AND I'M sending you four.
AND YOU can make a bomb.
OR A bottle of pop.
OR ANY old thing.

I THANK you.

BEST ENJOY SUNSHINE AND SHUN GLOOM

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

IT is a banality to say that living is a very complex affair. Every one knows it. It's a different adventure to each of us, and yet the heavens and the hells of every experience are very much alike.

I can't predict the events that will happen to you. You can't predict those that will happen to me. But there are certain things that each of us may be reasonably sure of.

One is that we will meet our Waterloo more than once, and that exactly expresses my meaning, and is a beautiful example of an Irish bull.

Another certainty is that the Hesperidian apples of which we shall unquestionably go in search will be guarded by a very large, husky dragon with formidable claws and long, sharp teeth. We shall learn that "It is not much that a man can save on the sands of life in the straits of time," and we shall more than once ask ourselves, "And canst thou bear the long recoil, the weary strain?" And the irrevocable answer will come.

"Thou wilt need all the strength
God can give,
Simply to live, my friend, simply to live."

All this may be taken for granted, and since in every life there seems to be a certain number of dark and rainy days, why isn't it the truest wisdom, the best philosophy to enjoy to the full the sunshiny ones?

We all have some especial plaint and some especial plea. My little plaint is that I think the world might be a better and happier place if we'd let all the prisoners out of the prisons and shut up all the kill-joys in their places.

I wonder why there are so many persons in the world who think it is the proper thing to take their pleasures a little sadly, who haven't the courage to enjoy their lives. What black vein of superstition is in us that we are afraid fully to rejoice in today, but spend our time instead in cowering before the shadowy spectre of tomorrow? It shows a lack of imagination, a morbidity of nature, not to be able to live in the moment.

Letters to the Editor

Owe Vote of Thanks

Editor Boston American:

As a rent-payer, I noted with great interest several articles which have appeared daily in the American on profiteering landlords. I firmly believe that the people of this State owe the American a vote of thanks and gratitude for the efforts in their behalf, not only on this question but on several other., namely, the sale of our merchant ships and the thirteen billion dollar loan to England. In Monday's edition it has opened the people's eyes in regard to a bunch of grafters running under the name of commissioners and the amount of good they are doing.

Brookline. F. J. McG.

All Camouflage

Editor Boston American:

Do you know that probably 90 per cent. or more of the best thinking class (all kinds of skilled workers) believe absolutely that the much advertised activity of all the agencies of the controlling class is nothing in the world but camouflage — absolutely nothing but "hunk"—to pull wool over the eyes of the producing class while their masters bind their fetters even more closely than heretofore? They pretend to be seeking remedies for our present evils, but we don't for a moment imagine it to be a case of not knowing how, but rather a case of not wanting to disturb a set of unjust conditions which create such fat pickings for the greedy, the cunning and the unscrupulous. Why don't you ask for and publish short letters for and against this view and thus discover where we really "are at?"

Is More War Coming?
Beware Russo-Germania
Pretty Euphemism
If You Had a Sand Bank

— By Arthur Brisbane —

Copyright, 1920.

There is serious, threatening possibility of more European war, in the late news.

The German revolution was soon begun, soon done. Chancellor Kapp resigns, becoming plain Dr. Kapp. He, or those that put him up, realized rather late that it might be dangerous to force German workmen into an alliance with Russian sovietism. That would end the chances of monarchy, which amount to little, also property rights of a large class, amounting to a great deal.

The allies don't want any German-Russian combination, and have made that clear.

Once convince German workmen and small property owners that their case is hopeless, their nation permanently bankrupt, and you add German technical skill and directing ability to the Russian maelstrom. Latest cables indicate that the Berlin crowd is demanding soviet rule and alliance with Russia.

Russia and Germany united against the rest of Europe might make the rest of Europe worth less than ten cents on the dollar. The English, French and Italians know it.

Mr. Obregon of Mexico says Mr. Carranza's government intends to make Mexico "safe for Americans." More power to the kind intention. But isn't it the job of the American government to make Mexico safe for Americans? England is able to make the whole world safe for an Englishman.

The wealth of Euphemism is increased by the coroner's decision declaring that Ruth Randall killed Captain Bleyer. Whoever wrote that decision could have reported the Thaw case for the Christian Herald without losing a reader.

The murdered man was found in bed with a bullet-hole in his temple. Ruth Randall, who committed suicide, was lying beside him with a bullet in her head. The verdict describes the dead man as the lady's "intimate friend and associate." There's refined English for you.

The Supreme Court says government cannot tax stock dividends.

Congress plans to tax stock dividends anyhow. A financier asks "will Congress presume to override the Supreme Court?"

It will indeed, if it is a congress of men, not monkeys or puppets. The business of Congress is to make laws and to lay taxes.

The business of the Supreme Court is to say what laws are constitutional.

When the Supreme Court interprets the Constitution in favor of slavery as it did in the Dred Scott case, Congress overrules the Supreme Court with a Constitutional amendment.

When the Supreme Court puts itself on the side of capital, as it did in forbidding any income tax, Congress again overrules the Supreme Court.

And when, as now, the Supreme Court again by a bare majority puts itself on the side of capital as in the stock dividend decision, Congress must, by ordinary legislation if possible, by constitutional amendment if necessary, again overrule the Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court is a referee, not a law-maker. It is a learned body of paid employes, not of dictators.

If you owned a sand bank, had men and horses to work it, needed sand to make concrete, and the dealers in sand sold you half what you needed, charging you two prices, what would you do?

You would go into your own sand bank, dig out your sand, or your neighbors would call you an idiot.

What would you call Uncle Sam, who needs oil for his navy, owns millions of acres containing oil, is charged a double price for what he wants, can only get half that he needs, and does nothing about it?

Not only does the government fail to drill, getting its own oil, its own gasoline, filling its requirements and protecting its citizens from extortion, but, as a climax of idiocy, it turns over the people's oil lands to private exploiters. Presently you will be reading that these gentlemen have doubled the price of gasoline and oil and cannot spare what the government needs.

To say that a government as powerful as this not protecting itself or its citizens from extortion is idiotic, is putting it mildly.

The French have just discovered new deposits of coal, badly needed in spite of the fact that France took the best coal mines from Germany. Do you think France will turn over those coal deposits to private individuals that will say to the French government, "We can't supply you." Not for a moment. The French government is no idiot, and the French people would not stand the nonsense that this American republic endures.
